ONLY TERMS ON WHICH TO MEET DEBTS

Germans Object to Discriminatory Provisions of Treaty in Communique

STATESMEN ARE ANGRY

Predictions Made Conference Would End Today in View of New Demand

LAUSANNE, June 29.—(UP)—Germany demanded revision of the Versailles peace treaty today as a price for future payment of reparations of any type. The German demand was made known through an official announcement after it had been made to British Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald by German Chancellor Franz von Papen. The German delegation had issued a communique declaring bluntly that the reich did not intend to pay any more reparations. The conversations between French and German delegates seeking an end to the reparations deadlock centered on reaching a compromise on the French demand for economic or political compensation for cancellation of reparations. Then the Germans brought forth their demand for revision of the "discriminatory" provisions of Versailles, which include restriction of

STATE EMPLOYEES TO WORK SHORT WEEKS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—(UP)—Employees of the state of California will go on a five day week July 1, which is expected to effect an annual saving of more than $4,000,000.

Announcement of the drastic reduction was made here by Governor James Rolph Jr., after a lengthy conference with state officials. About $2,500,000 of the saving will be used to provide work for unemployed persons in the state, the governor said. Special public works will be provided to give work to "several thousand persons," he said.

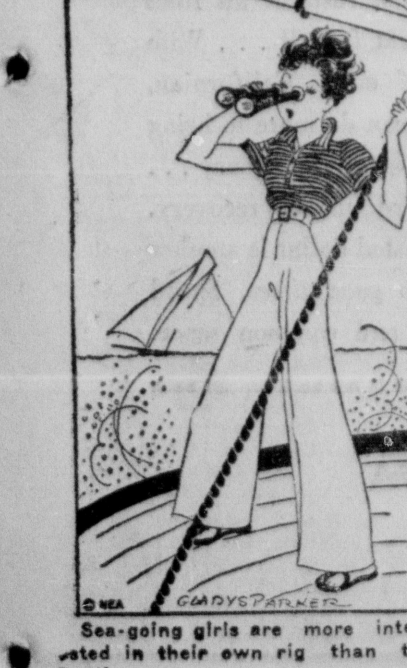

All state employees, except the governor, will be asked to accept pay cuts, excepting workers receiving $100 a month or less.

SENATE AND HOUSE CONFEREES TO MEET

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(UP)—Senate and house conferees on the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill were to meet today or tomorrow to iron out differences in the measure.

Discussion was expected to center about a provision for $375,000 to re-establish night air mail service between Salt Lake City, Utah, and San Diego, Calif. The house refused to make the appropriation but the senate reinserted it after debate.

REPORTER FOR N. Y. NEWSPAPER TELLS OF HOAX

Declares Curtis Created Fictitious Story to Collect $25,000

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 29.—(UP)—The state of New Jersey added a new chapter to the John Hughes Curtis hoax story today.

Through the testimony of a New York newspaperman the prosecution in Curtis' trial on charges of obstructing justice introduced evidence intended to prove that the Norfolk boat builder's imagination expanded rapidly under the prospect of obtaining cash. William E. Haskell Jr., of the New York Herald Tribune testified that in an effort to collect $25,000 from that paper, Curtis declared that he had made contact with the Lindbergh kidnapers and that at one time he had to restrain Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from jumping off a yacht and swimming to the supposed kidnapers' vessel. Haskell was the first witness on the third day of Curtis' trial on charges growing out of his allegedly faked negotiations with the kidnapers and slayers of the Lindbergh baby. He was called by the prosecution to support its contention that Curtis perpetrated a cruel hoax on the Lindberghs for publicity and profit, hoping to sell his story to the press for a large fee.

Curtis' description of the contact at sea was vivid, Haskell said. He told of rough seas which prevented transferring the baby from the kidnapers' boat to Curtis.

Although excused as a witness, Colonel Lindbergh occupied a chair within the enclosure and followed the testimony carefully.

Haskell revealed that Edwin Bruce, friend of Curtis', had discussed motion pictures which Bruce had taken of Lindbergh during several of the sea expeditions. Fisher, expressed for details, but Haskell, excising the newspaperman's ethics of withholding information obtained in confidence, asked to be excused.

On cross examination, Haskell was a friendly witness to the defense. He said he was positive in his own mind that Curtis actually has been in communication with the kidnapers. He declared there was no possible way Curtis could have profited unless the baby was returned.

Haskell referred to a character called "Alec," and then with dramatic suddenness revealed that "Alec" was none other than Colonel Lindbergh. Curtis never referred to him by any other name, he said.

Haskell told of talking to Curtis after his hoax confession was made public. "Curtis told me he would have signed anything in order to get some sleep," he said. "I asked him if he had really been in contact with the kidnapers and he replied indignantly: 'Yes, I certainly was, and the story is still to be told and is in Norfolk!'"

Haskell's cross examination was brief. The next witness was Frank J. Wilson, Baltimore, specialist agent of the intelligence division, department of internal revenue.

Wilson testified that Curtis had provided him with a description of the kidnapers' boat and of the men aboard it. With this description, Wilson set the coast guard on a lengthy and expensive search.

MIAMI, Fla., June 29.—(UP)—Immigration officials today held Paul Kaiser, 25, a German citizen, who accomplished the almost unprecedented feat of entering the country as a stowaway on an airplane.

He was discovered in a tiny tail compartment of a 22-passenger Pan-American Airways plane when it landed here from its regular Central American run. The pilot had thought his machine tall heavy, but attributed it to a heavy express load.

Naval Battle Is Staged On Ohio River

POWHATAN, O., June 29.—(UP)—The first "naval battle" in the protracted mine trouble in Eastern Ohio was on record today and as a result, United States marshals were reported enroute here to prevent further encounters. Coal miners embarked on the Ohio river in an attempt to evade a picket line of 500 strikers who patrolled the mine area. In mid-stream they were met by the "union" fleet. A pitched battle was staged while national guard observers and deputy sheriffs watched from the Ohio shore, unable to interfere because the encounter was on federal territory. Sticks, clubs and oars were the battle weapons. Casualties included two men who were thrown overboard. The war department was notified.

WATERS NAMED TO HEAD VETS IN WASHINGTON

Efforts Being Made to Restore Harmony Among Bonus Forces

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(UP)—Bronzed and forceful Walter W. Waters of Oregon, original leader of the bonus army, strove today to restore harmony among 15,000 veterans torn by dissension and acutely short of food.

By a coup Waters once more became commander-in-chief of the bonus expeditionary force. He was acclaimed as such by a majority of the men last night at the main camp in Anacostia. Rival leaders denounced the action as illegal, but said they would abide by a confirmatory vote to be taken this afternoon.

Waters twice previously had been commander of the bonus force, and had resigned because of disputes and disobedience of his orders. Confusion has reigned in the veterans camps since Saturday, when he stepped down the second time.

The executive committee first proposed permanent leaders and policies be determined by a convention of 500 delegates. Temporary commanders came and went in swift succession. Dissension increased. Food shortage added to the unrest. Waters feared his rivals would try to control the army.

Waters went to the Anacostia camp last evening. He implored the veterans to re-establish unity and discipline. Friendly delegates from other camps were among the crowd of 10,000. As he finished, shouts of "let's vote now" and "Waters again, right now" went up. In a moment Waters assumed command again, "on condition that I am to be real leader whom the rank and file will support at all times."

"Our watchword," he declared, "will continue to be 'stick it out.'"

Waters returned to the dingy headquarters building in the city, Mike Thomas of Camden, N. J., commander of the Anacostia camp and candidate for leadership of LONDON, June 29.—(UP)—The suicide of Violet Sharpe, maid in the Morrow home at Englewood, was not caused by police violence in questioning her about the Lindbergh kidnaping, Capt. R. A. Eden, foreign under-secretary, told the House of Commons today. Eden said the British consul-general in New York reported he was satisfied "no physical violence or so-called third degree methods were used by the police."

CONGRESS WILL NOT END WORK BEFORE FOURTH

Economy Measure of Government Keeping Solons in Senate Busy

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(UP)—A weary congress is plodding steadily toward adjournment. Senate leaders, however, are resigned to spending the Fourth of July in Washington and the more pessimistic think the session will last until the middle of July.

The long disputed $150,000,000 government economy bill was ready for President Hoover's signature today. By 35-11, the Senate last night abandoned its efforts to ease the sacrifices imposed upon government employees. Senators LaFollette, Wis., Bingham, Conn., and Reed, Pa., Republicans, vainly pleaded against what LaFollette termed a "humiliating surrender" to the views of the house.

The major saving will be accomplished by compelling virtually all Federal employees earning $1000 or more a year to take a month's furlough without pay. For those who cannot be spared, there will be a flat salary cut of 8.3 percent. Higher officials will take larger reductions.

Other savings will be made by suspending all promotions in the government service, filling no vacancies except by specific direction of the President, suspending extra pay for overtime work, reorganizing bureaus, and restricting military transfers.

The bill carries a sweeping authorization for department heads to dismiss as many employees as necessary to keep within curtailed budgets.

The Senate also gave in to the House on a provision which increases the effectiveness of the economies but wrecks President Hoover's plan for part time jobs for the unemployed. He proposed savings under the compulsory furlough he used largely to hire substitute workers. The bill in final form requires the money saved be returned to the President. The others have advanced to or beyond the conference stage.

FAMOUS CHAPLAIN IS LAID TO REST

NEW YORK, June 29.—(UP)—Thousands of persons lined the streets today as the body of the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, famous war time chaplain, was carried to St. Patrick's cathedral in an impressive funeral service.

The body, in a mahogany casket, was carried from the Holy Cross church through a lane formed by blue girls in white and 20 boys in blue jackets and white trousers, the graduating class of Holy Cross school.

The casket was placed on a caisson drawn by six horses as the funeral procession passed to the cathedral where impressive services were held before more than 1000 representatives of the army and navy, government, state and city officials, the Catholic clergy and ministers of other denominations.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(UP)—Eight American women and children, members of missionaries' families, were held captive for a day by Chinese communists. ### Reduction Of Tax Rate Is Possible

Budget Tentatively Adopted Totals But $817,742.86 for Year

SHOWING A TOTAL reduction of $266,511.50 in proposed expenditures for 1932-33 over actual expenditures of 1931-32 the Santa Ana Board of Education last night tentatively adopted the budget for its next fiscal year. The budget, as tentatively adopted, totals $817,742.86.

Adoption of the tentative budget and decision to use the $90,000 unexpended balance of a bond issue voted several years ago, for retirement of bonds and payment of interest due this year makes possible a slash of approximately 30 percent in the tax rate for the coming year. The tax rate for operating expenses during the year was reduced 35 cents and the elementary bond rate was cut 40 cents making a total slash of 75 cents for the year. The tax rate was tentatively set at $1.68.

In announcing the reduction in tax rate it was pointed out that the 40 cent saving in the elementary bond rate is effective for this year only. It was decided to use the unexpended balance of the bond issue for retiring bonds due, in an effort to hold down taxes during the present financial crisis. Next year the entire amount required for retiring school bonds will be secured through taxation.

Public hearing on the budget will be held July 15, starting at 7:30 p. m. and will be in the board room at the Administration building. At this hearing any taxpayer may appear and be heard for or against any portion of the budget.

To effect the more than a quarter million dollar saving on this year's budget the board topped $57,344.91 off major capital expenditures for next year; cut the junior college

FOSTER IS DENIED RIGHT TO CAMPAIGN

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—(UP)—William Z. Foster, communist party candidate for the presidency, will not be permitted to campaign in Los Angeles as long as Capt. William F. Hynes is head of the "Red" squad.

Capt. Hynes made this plain today as Foster awaited a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus to release him from the county jail where he faced a charge of suspicion of criminal syndicalism. Foster was arrested at the Plaza yesterday noon before he could even mount a box to address more than 1000 sympathizers of his cause. He was struck down by an officer as he left his automobile, witnesses said.

Police then hurled gas bombs and arrested more than a score of demonstrators, although only Foster and three companions were held.

ROGERS STEALS COMMITTEE ON SHOW IN TALK PLATFORM HAS AT CONVENTION HARD SLEDDING

Cowboy Humorist Entertains Delegates During Lull in Proceedings

CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS, CHICAGO, June 29.—(UP)—Will Rogers, cowboy humorist, stole the show from the politicians at the Democratic national convention today.

He was caught unexpectedly during an idle moment in the press stand. He was even without his customary chewing gum when the crowd idling away an hour began to yell for Rogers.

He was hustled from the press stand onto the platform and was introduced by Eddie Dowling, musical comedy star.

"I always thought the Democratic convention was a joke and now I know it is," Rogers said.

Laughter rolled across the giant stadium in one pealing blast. "The man I'm about to nominate," Will began while the crowd laughed again.

"I'm not a delegate and have no political affiliations, so if I'm rotten I don't owe you anything."

"All I have to do is to stand here and act a fool until the Democratic party can agree on a platform," he continued.

He said that would mean he'd be here from now on. "As soon as we can get the platform committee sober enough to turn in a platform, we'll vote," Rogers remarked.

The crowd went wild. It was the best show of the convention. Rogers, speaking of the prayer that had opened the convention,

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—(UP)—A family row was no mild adventure when one of the participants was Myrtle St. Pierre, comely nurse, it was testified at today's session of the trial of her $200,000 breach of promise suit against David L. Hutton, husband of Almee Sample McPherson-Hutton.

Mrs. Gladys Cassill, sister of the nurse but star witness for Hutton, said she once was knocked "cold" during one such altercation.

REPORT ON PLATFORM IS DELAYED

Recess Taken Until Two o'Clock at Opening and Second One is Ordered

CROWD ENTERTAINED

Will Rogers, Amos 'n Andy and Other Celebrities Called to Make Talks

BULLETIN CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS, CHICAGO, June 29.—(UP)—Outright wets today captured control of the Democratic platform committee and in an amazing and unexpected upset forced through by a two-to-one vote a repeal, beer and wine prohibition plank. If the plank is adopted by the Democratic convention the party will be committed without qualification to immediate repeal of the 18th amendment and to amendment of the Volstead act pending repeal.

First intimation of changing sentiment of the committee came in the vote on the so-called majority plank which would have advocated repeal but not committed the party to it. The committee beat that, 35 to 18. The outright wet plank went over on the next roll call by a 35 to 17 vote.

STADIUM, CHICAGO, June 29.—(UP)—Convention leaders decided to recess until 7 p. m. because of the delay in the platform committee.

The platform committee had not completed its work at 12 o'clock, the hour set for the convention to meet for receiving the platform.

At 12:46 Permanent Chairman Walsh rapped for order and called upon the Rev. Duncan Hodges Brown, St. James Episcopal Cathedral, Chicago, for the opening prayer.

The Rev. Mr. Brown was obliged to wait for some moments for quiet.

After the prayer, Walsh declared the convention in recess until 2 p. m., but called upon Mrs. Naomi Carroll Haimsohn of Tennessee to entertain the delegates with a song.

Walsh said that Chairman Hitchcock of the platform committee had asked that the convention be informed the platform report would be ready at 2 p. m. As it was then 1 p. m. Walsh formally declared a recess, but planned to keep the delegates in the hall by music and possibly an informal speech by some party leader later.

Chairman Walsh then introduced a lad in knickers—Compton I. White, Jr., 11, of Clarke Fork, Idaho, an honorary delegate from Idaho. As the smiling little fellow

WILL ROGERS says:

CHICAGO, June 29.—(Special to The Register:—) Ah, they was Democrats yesterday, and we was all proud of 'em. They fought, they fit, they split, and adjourned in a dandy wave of dissension. That's the old Democratic spirit. A whole day wasted and nothing done. I tell you they are getting back to normal.

A whole day fighting over what? A President? No. A platform? No. Well, then, what did they take up 1100 delegates and 12,000 spectators' time for? Why, to see whether Huey Long (the Louisiana porcupine) was to sit the floor or in the gallery. Well, the "porcupine" sticks right on the floor. And the other four hours was fighting over who would be chairman of a convention that's already a week old.

You can't beat the old Democrats for comedy. Time means no more to them than to a Mexican burro.

COMMITTEE ON PLATFORM HAS HARD SLEDDING

The revised wet plank for repeal of the amendment and modification of the Volstead act is as follows:

"We favor the repeal of the 18th amendment."

"To effect such repeal, we demand that the congress immediately propose a constitutional amendment to truly representative conventions in the states called to meet solely on that proposal."

"We urge the enactment of such measures by the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the states."

"We demand that the federal government effectively exercise its power to protect states against importation of intoxicating liquors in violation of their laws."

"Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution and provide therefor a proper and needed revenue."

"After an hour's discussion the committee encountered prolonged difficulties on the subject of tariff. At that time committee members coming out for conferences with outsiders declared the situation was such that the session might continue for hours, or might terminate suddenly if minority opposition tired of argument.

After almost two hours discussion, the committee agreed on a "competitive tariff" plank for revenue only.

The committee voted down a proposal which would have provided a federal guarantee for bank deposits.

WATERS NAMED TO HEAD VETS IN WASHINGTON

The entire bonus army, went to the headquarters, argued heatedly with Waters and finally said he would abide by today's election. Waters' supporters placed a guard around the headquarters building, fearing the Thomas forces would try to seize it.

Police reserves were ready to quell possible disorders.

The veterans' commissary has only enough food to last until tonight. After that nothing is in prospect except bread and cracked wheat breakfast food.

Police Superintendent Glassford formally retired as treasurer for the bonus army and once more urged it to disperse. The senate passed a resolution by Senator Howell, Repn., Neb., directing the veterans' bureau to loan the men railroad fare to their homes. The money would be deducted from that due them when the bonus becomes payable—in 1945, under the present law.

CONVENTION IS RECESSED TO THIS EVENING

low stepped forward, Chairman Walsh smiled and said: "He'll speak a piece for you."

Young Compton then in a boyish treble recited "What Makes a Nation."

The crowd spotted Will Rogers in the press stand and set up a wild cry for the famous cowboy humorist.

He was taken out of the press stand and hustled to the platform.

Walsh then turned the stage over to Eddie Dowling, the gavel star.

Dowling then introduced Will Rogers amid a din of cheering.

After Rogers had put the crowd into hysterics with a humorous speech on the weaknesses of the Democrats, Gene Tunney, the former heavyweight champion, was called to the platform by Eddie Dowling, who had been installed as master of ceremonies during a recess in the official convention proceedings.

Tunney, however, was modest and declined to appear on the platform.

Dowling then spotted Clarence Darrow, the famous attorney, in the crowd.

"I wonder if one of the greatest criminal lawyers in America won't stand up, we can all see him," Dowling said.

The crowd gave Darrow a big cheer.

Dowling as unofficial master of ceremonies was running the show like one of the old-fashioned radio concert calls calling impromptu on any talent he happened to see around. It was a unique interlude in the national convention which for the first time broke the anxieties and strains of mutual rivalries for a brief hour of fun.

Congressman Connery, of Massachusetts, a renowned story-teller, was introduced to the convention.

Connery entertained the crowd with several favorite war stories.

The crowd went up a tremendous cheer when Dowling introduced Father Coughlin, "The Shepherd of the Air," who is internationally known for his Sunday radio sermons.

Father Coughlin made the first serious talk in the program.

"I am neither a Republican nor a Democrat," he said. "Religion should not be identified with either political party but with the principles of Jesus Christ."

"The Savior is here in this presence today, asking you to have the intestinal fortitude to act for the multitude."

"He is asking that you take up your cross and follow him."

Father Coughlin spoke with tremendous earnestness and emphasis. He pleaded for the unemployed and the farmers who have lost their land, and said that 17 banks had failed in Chicago since the Republican national convention met.

"Are you going to continue to help the things that have created our misery instead of helping the farmer, the laborer and the small business man?"

"Have the courage of your convictions and put Christ ahead of party. Remember we have had an engineer of Palo Alto in the White House. I appeal that we put the carpenter of Nazareth back in the White House."

Will Rogers was called back again to the platform.

He introduced to the crowd Amos and Andy, the two famous radio characters, who came forward and gave in person, smilingly, one of their shows.

At 2:19 p. m. the convention recessed until 7 p. m. when the platform committee is expected to report.

said no one could think of anything that would impress the Lord sufficiently to help the Democrats.

"I had breakfast this morning with Jimmy Cox," he said. "Does your memory go back that far?"

Glancing at the horde of news photographers before the platform, Rogers said he thought every delegate had brought his own photograph.

"And every candidate brought his own editorial writer," Rogers said.

Delegates, weary of stodgy political speeches, were almost in hysterics as Rogers shot his kindly humor through the petty pretenses of the politicians.

"The platform," Rogers said, "will be adopted this week and forgotten next week."

He said he was going to be the first speaker with a good word to say for the opposition.

"But it's going to take me a long time to think of something," he said.

"The Republicans did the best they could with what little they had."

"I don't know who we are going to nominate here. I like all the candidates. I hate to see these conventions, because someone has to lose. I wish we could nominate them in some way so they'd all have a week apiece."

He mentioned Roosevelt first. The crowd cheered.

"Don't mind the parade," Rogers said.

Referring to Huey Long, he said the "old Louisiana porcupine" had put up a good talk yesterday.

"Al Smith, I love," he said while the Smith delegates applauded.

Speaker Garner he described as a "Texas prairie dog whose home he had visited and whom he liked."

"There's Ritchie," he said, "a big man from a little state."

"Ritchie" always has been a stickler for state rights. You can wake him up at any time of the night and he'll start right in on state rights.

"They're all good. You can't go wrong on any of them."

John Krouton of Yukon, Okla., came before the platform and waved an Oklahoma banner.

"Oh, yes, there's Bill Murray," Rogers said.

Rogers pleaded for the delegates to act harmoniously and "don't go home sore," he said.

"I don't see how there could be a weak enough man not to win next November if he'll live that long."

He pleaded with the delegates not to describe any candidate as the "weakest candidate."

"Let's nominate Rogers," someone shouted.

"For the Lord's sake don't act like Democrats," Rogers pleaded seriously, "act like he was the one you wanted."

Rogers commented that he wasn't the only comedian who had been on the platform and asked the Democrats not to make fools of themselves.

"We've always had fun with our conventions," he said, "because we weren't going anywhere. But don't argue too much this time. Don't take the platform seriously. It ain't never going to be read any more, anyway."

$12,000 MELON CUT BY FINANCE GROUP

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Southwest Building-Loan Association held yesterday the board declared the regular semi-annual dividend on the capital stock to be paid to stockholders July 1.

In addition to the payment of the above dividend to stockholders, this company will distribute more than $10,000 as interest payments to investors.

This is a home owned institution vitally interested in Santa Ana and adjoining communities. The following are officers and directors:

J. P. Baumgartner, president; W. D. Ranney, vice president; Roy Russell, vice president; Horace C. Head, attorney; George A. Parker, treasurer; A. C. Gassenjager, secretary; John J. Harrison, Dr. P. W. Slabaugh, C. H. Chapman, R. B. Newcom, Carl Mock, F. E. Moore, Dr. J. E. Paul, Oliver Hallsell.

rental $19,590 and reduced operating expenses $150,556.59.

According to present estimates the board will close the fiscal year on July 1 with a balance of $9434.03.

The total estimated income for 1932-33 is placed at $843,496.91 with $17,596 deducted for transfers leaving an available balance of $825,900.91. Comparing the proposed expenditures of $817,742.86 with the available income the indications are that the board will end the next fiscal year with an approximate balance of $778,065.

Under the estimated receipts for the next fiscal year the state will contribute $230,763.92; the county $283,921.48; district, $233,505, and $85,871.48.

Economy measures to become effective for the next fiscal year have made a marked decrease in the cost per pupil in operation of the various schools of the city. This economy policy, according to members of the board, has not affected the efficiency of the schools and in many cases, through equalizing the teacher load will tend to increase efficiency.

This year the cost per pupil for operating the 14 schools ranged from $80 to $120. Next year the variation will be from $68 to $90.

SCHOOL BOARD AGAIN DELAYS BRINEY CASE

With Deputy District Attorney William Menton advising them that both Miss Bertha Briney and Miss Lois Gould have permanent tenure as teachers and cannot be dismissed and Alfred E. Lentz, legal adviser of the state board of education, declaring that they do not have a permanent status, the Santa Ana board of education is not anxious to take immediate action in dismissal of the teachers.

Like the Old Man of the Sea, the problem of whether or not the two teachers can be dropped from the list this year has been hovering over the board and last night, on motion of Rolla Hays, again voted another delay in settling the matter. The delay was taken this time in order to secure a decision from the attorney general.

Asks Attorney General

In making his motion to continue the matter Hays said that he feels that the board wants to comply with the law in the matter and that in cases where teachers have acquired tenure will recognize it but in this case where board members do not know whether or not this status exists it is his opinion that no action should be taken until word is received from the attorney general.

A new complication was added to the already complicated case last night when it was revealed that Miss Gould intends to oppose her dismissal from the school system. Miss Gould was dropped when the department of musical instruction was eliminated from the elementary schools. In giving an opinion on the matter of Miss Briney's status Menton found that Miss Gould also had established permanent tenure.

Has No Spokesman

Last week Dr. Percy R. Davis, retiring superintendent of schools, informed the board that he had been notified by Mr. Gould, father of the teacher in question, that he would accept the board's ruling. Last night Miss Gould notified the board that no one has been authorized to act for her and that she intends to press her claim for employment.

The board officially decided to combine forces with the Santa Ana Parent-Teacher association for a playground program this summer. The P.-T. A. has secured $250 to apply on the program and the board will contribute $750, making possible a $1000 program.

Names Playground Commission

The program will be conducted by a commission comprising three members of the board of education and one from the Parent-Teacher group. Board members appointed to the commission last night by Chairman George Wells were: Dr. Margaret Baker, W. M. Burke and M. B. Youel.

A letter from Ralph Smedley, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was read in which Smedley offered use of the swimming pool, playground facilities and help in securing volunteer supervisors for the playgrounds. This offer was turned over to the playground commission for acceptance. The commission also was given power to select the playgrounds to be operated this year and to make all arrangements for the program.

On motion of Dr. Baker a resolution was adopted authorizing the use of $60,000 unexpended balance in a recent bond issue for redemption of bonds due this year and payment of interest without recourse to additional tax.

PROBLEM WILL BE DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Sparks flew last night when an open discussion of the proposed $400,000 water conservation program outlined for the upper Santa Ana river basin was held during the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County, meeting panies in the county and all other County water company representatives presented a united front to oppose the recommendations of Chairman Ross Shafer and the water conservation committee against the participation of Orange county in the plan.

Out of the heated discussions and numerous opinions expressed on the subject, however, grew a plan for a round table conference of representatives of water companies in the county and all other organizations interested in water to formulate a program for the entire county.

Refuse Delay
A motion made following a suggestion made by H. H. Hale, president of the Anaheim Union Water company that the Associated Chambers take no action on the matter until the Tri-Counties Water Conservation, sponsors of the movement, submit a written report to the board of supervisors failed to carry.

Francis Cutler, president of the Riverside Water company and of the Water Conservation association, will probably speak at a future meeting of the Associated Chambers.

William T. Wallop, superintendent of the Anaheim Water company, berated President Ross Shafer for his attitude and remarks on the water program. J. B. Phillips, a member of the Associated Water committee, said he "was sick of the water companies trying to run the county," after Wallop had spoken.

Report Starts Row
Discussion of the water problem followed a report made by Judge L. F. Coburn of Orange, chairman of the water conservation committee, on a meeting of the committee held in Costa Mesa recently, which was published in the Register. He announced that another meeting of the water committee would be held on July 20 in the office of the Anaheim Union Water company in Anaheim.

Judge Coburn told of a trip taken with a Farm Bureau party to the headwaters of the river. Water companies, he said, practically own the river bed and declared he "didn't wonder the water companies wanted to spread the water."

No Slight Intended
"The board of supervisors," Judge Coburn declared, "refused to spend the money for the project. No slight was intended in their adoption of a resolution opposing the spreading program, and it was best to adopt Elliott's report. Water companies in Orange county represent but 35 per cent of the territory using water in the county. The project is important to Riverside and San Bernardino counties and to water companies."

"After that trip I don't see how Orange county gets any water. Nearly all is appropriated by San Bernardino and Riverside interests. Orange county must wake up and get water or go back to the desert. This county is entitled to a certain amount of the water. I am glad the board of supervisors took the action they did. I can't see how Orange county would derive any benefit from the Tri-Counties project. It would take 25 years for the water to get down to this territory from up there."

Wallop Raps County Office
William T. Wallop, of the Anaheim Water company, declared that the Anaheim Water company did not own any land in the river basin, but that the Santa Ana River Development company owned 3600 acres. He added that the company was a holding company for the Anaheim Water company and the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company. He corrected the report of Judge Coburn by stating that the motion made at the water committee meeting was that the committee go before the board of supervisors to stop action until the general Association meeting.

"I think that bureau of misinformation, of attachments which may be fastened directly to the corn planter."

Another factor that must be taken into consideration is the fact that the operation of hill planting takes a little longer than broadcasting. This delay, however, is offset by the fact that one less operation is needed if the seed and fertilizer are applied at the same time.

It is also very important that this fertilizer be placed at the side of the hill so that it does not come in contact with the seed and burn the roots or stalk. One other factor to be considered is the productivity of the soil, since hill fertilization does not work successfully in soils in a more or less unproductive state, due to the fact that in such soils not enough plant food material is supplied to meet the needs of the growing crop.

ORANGE COUNTY W. C. T. U. STARTS SERIES OF TALKS OVER RADIO STATION KREG

YESTERDAY the Orange County chapter W. C. T. U. went on the air over radio KREG with the first of a series of weekly programs to be broadcast every Tuesday at 9 a. m. These programs will continue for several months.

The first speaker was Mrs. Mary A. Heywood. In her introductory talk she explained the purpose of the broadcast to give historical facts of the alcohol problem and current events in the wet and dry issue.

Introducing the program she said: "We shall point out the fallacies of the wet, I will not say arguments but rather propaganda. There is no sound convincing argument for the beverage use of alcohol or for the traffic in it. Women and children have always been the bitterest sufferers from the drink evil so there is a large company of devoted women who will wage a never ceasing warfare on the booze business so long as a vestige of it remains."

Age-Old Menace
"In colonial days, before the birth of our nation, authorities were worried by the whiskey menace. From that day to this good men and women have been laboring to reduce drink evils. Every other expedient was tried before national prohibition but none of them produced so good results as has the 18th amendment."

Age-Old Menace
"In colonial days, before the birth of our nation, authorities were worried by the whiskey menace. From that day to this good men and women have been laboring to reduce drink evils. Every other expedient was tried before national prohibition but none of them produced so good results as has the 18th amendment."

Opinion Unchanged
"We believe that among the rank and file of our good citizens the opinion that liquor is a foe to man's best interests is still unchanged but the belief in efficacy of the 18th amendment is slipping. We contend that the grounds for this weakening of faith are insufficient. We still unreservedly support national prohibition, as being the best thing yet tried for liquor control and that its enforcement can and should be further improved.

"Will you not in the coming months give us a patient and friendly hearing and if you find us worthy will you not help us to an enlarged audience?"

The subject for her talk yesterday was "Canada Controlled by Liquor." On this topic Mrs. Heywood said:

Liquor Controls Canada
"To show that Canada is controlled by liquor and that 'government control' is a catch phrase and never existed in Canada, it will be necessary to review the years preceding the adoption of government sale of liquor in the eighth province that have adopted in some form so called 'government control.' Government control was intended to be misleading and it is. Under this system the brewers and distillers manufacture the liquor as formerly but now their product is sold to the government, which in turn sells to individuals on permits. This method gives the liquor interests a semblance of respectability and they run no risk as the government is good pay."

"This investigation proves that before 'government control,' or as it should be called government sale of liquor was adopted, the brewers and distillers put on an enormous advertising campaign calling 'government control' a 'temperance measure.' They claimed there would be less drinking, bootlegging would be banished, taxes lowered, and crime diminished by this method.

"Ben H. Spence of Toronto, one of the best known authorities on the liquor question in Canada, in speaking of the brewers' tactics, says, 'The people of provinces after provinces were fooled, coaxed, threatened, deceived, misled, beguiled or bribed into setting up systems of government sale.'"

"In this campaign the brewers and distillers spent millions of dollars. A movement known as the Moderation League, an organization to overthrow any tendency toward prohibition in the provinces of Canada, was organized and heavily financed by the liquor interests. One company contributed $425,000 to the league for campaign purposes. When the president of this distillery was put upon the witness stand his defense was, he figured investing nearly a half million dollars in the fight to establish 'government control' would result in immense gains in his business. Let us see how well grounded his expectations were.

Liquor Use Increases
"According to the Ontario Liquor board, Ontario is buying liquor at the rate of $1,000,000 a week, and $20,400 permits were issued in the first four months." The Toronto Star editorially says, "Liquor consumption is increasing. At such a rate in two years Canada will be the heaviest drinking nation in the world." The apparent consumption of malt liquors in 1930 was 63,000,000 gallons, wines 7,000,000 gallons, and spirits more than 3,000,000 gallons shown by government report. This does not include the large amount sold to the consumer by the bootlegger.

"The provincial government report of Ontario for 1930 supplies this information. Since the liquor control act went into force, with the promise that it would produce respect for law the number of persons imprisoned for drunkenness has increased by 60 per cent, the prison population by 60 per cent, and the cost of prisons and reformatories by 43 per cent. And the people have bought on government permits

EXPLOSION AND FIRE MENACES HOTEL GUESTS

Lives of tenants of the Brea hotel at Pomona and Ash streets in Brea were endangered at 12:45 o'clock this morning, when fire, believed of incendiary origin, broke out in one of the rooms following an explosion.

The explosion awoke James McFarland, a roomer, who discovered that one of the rooms on the second floor was a mass of flames. McFarland awoke other occupants of the building and turned in a fire alarm.

Firemen discovered an inner tube filled with kerosene in the hotel. An odor of kerosene was noticeable in the fire raged room, firemen said.

The hotel is under lease to Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Sharp, who operate a second hand furniture store in the rooms below the hotel. According to reports from Brea today, no insurance was carried. The Mortgage Guarantee company, Los Angeles, is said to own the property.

Firemen had little difficulty in extinguishing the flames, which were confined to the one room. Damage by fire and water was estimated at around $1000.

TELL ECONOMY METHODS FOR CORN CULTURE

Provided that the soil is not in too unproductive a condition, farmers may save themselves many dollars at corn planting time by applying fertilizer in the hill or row instead of broadcast, according to E. E. Eastman, Assistant Farm Advisor. A large number of experiments conducted in many states, in testing out methods of hill fertilization of corn, indicate that 125 pounds of fertilizer in the hill may be just as efficient as 500 pounds broadcast.

There are, however, a number of factors that must be taken into consideration if hill planting is to be done successfully. Probably the greatest hindrance to many farmers has been the lack of equipment, although in recent years this difficulty has been largely overcome through the introduction, by a number of manufacturers, of attachments which may be fastened directly to the corn planter.

Another factor that must be taken into consideration is the fact that the operation of hill planting takes a little longer than broadcasting. This delay, however, is offset by the fact that one less operation is needed if the seed and fertilizer are applied at the same time.

It is also very important that this fertilizer be placed at the side of the hill so that it does not come in contact with the seed and burn the roots or stalk. One other factor to be considered is the productivity of the soil, since hill fertilization does not work successfully in soils in a more or less unproductive state, due to the fact that in such soils not enough plant food material is supplied to meet the needs of the growing crop.

Mrs. Lester told of the prizes won by the pupils under her instruction during her three and a half years in Orange, three state prizes of first degree and four second degree, while a national prize was awarded one of her pupils two years ago. The thought she keeps before her pupils is, "Do your best every day." Mrs. Lester gave the poem, "Be the Best of Whatever You Are," by David Malloids.

Mrs. Mary Grose presented the play, "John Barleycorn," with her L. T. L. group. "Liberty" was personified by May Kokely, "America" by Dorothy Grose and "John Barleycorn" by Betty Grose. ## CHURCH GROUP HEARS TALK BY MISSION HEAD

ORANGE, June 29.—Women of the First Presbyterian church and their guests were greeted by the members of the executive board of the Missionary society when they gathered at the Woman's clubhouse for a social afternoon and tea.

Miss Marie Steinhour, of Los Angeles, a teacher in home mission schools for girls maintained by the society, was the principal speaker of the afternoon. The clubhouse was gay with summer flowers, vases and baskets of lavender and pink hydrangeas about the lobby provided lovely and unusual notes of color, while baskets of gladioluses decorated the platform.

Mrs. Ethel Niquette presided at the meeting and a program of music was given. Mrs. Niquette, in presenting those who took part in the program, said that she liked to feel that the missionary society stood for something beside the serious things of life and for this reason the social afternoon had been arranged.

Flute solos were given by Miss Joan Day and Miss Margaret Gregg played her accompaniment. Afterward during the tea hour, Miss Day and Miss Gregg played while refreshments were served in the lobby.

A reading, "When Mother Sang To Me," was presented. Songs by Miss Pauline Snodgrass accompanied the reading and the piano accompaniments were played by Miss Charlotte Hollister.

Mrs. W. J. Sutherland, accompanied by Miss Hollister, sang "Tosses in June," Thomas Philpen accompanied by Virginia Lee Harper, played as a baritone horn solo, "On the Road to Mandalay." In the receiving line were Mrs. E. E. Campbell, Mrs. F. E. Harrison, Mrs. Niquette, Mrs. Alvin A. Clifford, Mrs. George Campbell and Mrs. W. C. Ahlman.

The speaker of the afternoon was introduced by Mrs. R. W. Jones and she gave an interesting resume of the work done in the Allison James school in New Mexico and in the Mesopotamian school for girls in Tennessee.

Miss Steinhour said that the Spanish girls in the New Mexico school are descendants of the old Spanish conquerors. The homes of the girls, she said, were much the same as when the families established the first village in Southern California and northern New Mexico. The houses are still built of adobe and are quite small but always show the love of beauty possessed by their owners.

The girls from these schools, she said, are of a thoughtful and slow type. Miss Steinhour also told how Daily Vacation Bible schools have been established. Girls are taught to sew and can fruit and vegetables and are educated along other lines.

The mission school in Tennessee has been instrumental in establishing Sunday schools as well as Daily Vacation Bible schools, Miss Steinhour said. After the program punch and delectable little cakes were served in the lobby, Mrs. E. A. Turner, Mrs. W. E. Anderson and Miss Flo Scarratt presided at the refreshment table.

"Well, that's one problem off my mind—rather off my scalp," sighed the lady who had just proven the true worth of KREML to stop dandruff and keep her hair lovely as when fresh from the beauty shop. It is so easy to use, another told us; no bother of waiting for the signs to disappear so one can go out. KREML rubs into the scalp, leaving the hair fluffy and glossy, without signs of stickiness, greasiness or any of the disagreeable effects that make many hair tonics objectionable and difficult for the busy social, business or club worker to avail herself of it. KREML has a clean, pleasant odor that disappears almost immediately, and there is only a freshness to prove that anything has been used on the hair. It saves you real money in the number of shampoos necessary, for it keeps the permanent set and the wave perfect without a shampoo after each dip in the salty waves. KREML Shampoo makes the hair behave after shampooing. There is none of that usual flying and straggling of the hair following a shampoo with KREML. TRY it, and see for yourself.

It is very attractive, and at the same time sturdy enough for the strenuous wear. Milady expects from a good silk these days. The dark blue triple sheers in tailored dresses also lend themselves to many and varied occasions for all modes of travel and vacationing.

COUNTY C. OF C. TAX GROUP IN ECONOMY PLEA

Suggestion for reduction of county and school expenses in several items was incorporated in a report made by J. A. Knapp, chairman of the tax committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county at the regular monthly meeting held last night in Costa Mesa.

The report suggested that the number of telephones used by the county be cut; that the salaries of county employees be equalized as salaries of many county employees are higher than those of persons with similar positions on the outside; that transportation and fee expenses be reduced; that expenses of the county hospital be reduced.

Discuss School Costs
School costs also claimed attention in the report and statements made by Knapp, who pointed out that 65 cents of every tax dollar is spent for educational purposes. The report suggested the elimination of a few positions as an economy measure and suggested that the average school janitor is overpaid. The report pointed out that the average city school superintendent was paid more than the county superintendent.

The report suggested that a change be made in the state teacher tenure law so teachers could be employed on their merits only. It was also suggested that schools make their purchases through the county purchasing agent to save money and that advantage should be taken of cash discounts in making purchases.

Plan Tax Program
A definite tax program is being prepared by the committee and will be submitted to the general body for action in the near future, according to a statement made by Ross Shaffer, chairman. Harold Wahlberg, county farm advisor, gave a brief lecture on cost of production of oranges which he illustrated with figures on a chart series. Better crops can be grown by expending less money for culture, labor, materials, cultivation, fertilization and irrigation, he said.

Planners Report
Thomas Pickrell made a report for the planning committee. He declared that the county planning committee is handicapped through lack of funds to purchase base maps to carry out master planning work. He suggested that they be allowed a $500 fund for this purpose.

George Kellogg reported that a recommendation made to the state highway commission would give Orange county 24 miles of roads if approved, for secondary highways. He announced the opening of Ortega highway on July 4. Valencia orange groves have held their value better than any other thing in the United States, according to a statement made by V. D. Johnson, who pointed out that the price of groves was stable although many prominent stocks and bonds were below par value.

Plan Golf Tourney
George McLeod announced plans for an association golf tournament to be held on the Santa Clemente course on July 26. He also urged co-operation with Newport Beach in giving the annual Tournament of Lights on July 16. Lew Wallace reported more boats in the harbor than ever before.

George Raymer made a report on transportation committee plans, and reminded the assembly of the dedication of the Eddie Martin airport on July 10.

AH, A CLEW!
HOUSTON, Tex.—After a cigar store was entered and $13 in cigars and cigarettes stolen, police picked up M. C. Baldwin with a quantity of smokes on him. F. Johnson, owner of the shop, said if the cigars were those stolen, there would be a telephone number on the back of one of the boxes. The boxes were examined and the number found.

Y WILL START JUNIOR LIFE SAVING CLASS

A class in junior life saving will be started at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, which is open to boys 12 years of age and older, who are good swimmers.

The class will follow the regular Y. M. C. A. course in life saving and will be awarded Y. life saving certificates on completion of the work. The Y. M. C. A. requirements for life saving certificates are rather high and the course is one that requires considerable hard work and practice, but there are many boys who can accomplish it if they will try.

This work includes both land drill and work in the water, methods of rescue and resuscitation and all the other principles involved in the work of a life saver. There is still room in this class for additional enrollments and Mr. Russell, the physical director, will welcome boys who can qualify as swimmers when the class starts work tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The lessons will continue for a week or more, given daily at 2 o'clock except on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday.

JULIA LATHROP SCHOOL CHOSEN FOR CLUB MEET

Contrary to custom, the Santa Ana Breakfast club will meet at the Julia Lathrop Junior High school, at 7:30 tomorrow morning. The Junior Breakfast club will not meet in connection with the senior organization at this time, but will meet some noon, to be announced later.

Special entertainment will be provided by the committee, composed of Barney Koster and Dr. V. C. Croal, and will feature Evered Stovall, artist pupil of Earl Frazer. Stovall recently appeared as concert pianist with the Santa Ana Philharmonic Symphony. Also featured will be George Evans, who will entertain with special numbers on the violin. Evans is a teacher in the Orange County Institute of Musical Education, and is a member of the Santa Ana Philharmonic Symphony, and a prominent KREG artist. He will be accompanied by Miss Adelaide Proctor.

ROBERT SPEED IN RACE FOR ASSEMBLY JOB

Robert Speed, for 42 years a resident of California and for more than 20 years a resident and taxpayer of Orange county, filed nomination papers last Saturday as a candidate for the Republican nomination as assemblyman from the 74th district. Coming to Orange county with his parents as a small boy "Bob" Speed has spent his lifetime here with the exception of a few years during which he was in newspaper work in Los Angeles, Tulare, Fresno and San Francisco. For one year he served as secretary of the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, serving until his resignation. After returning to Santa Ana he was president of the Enterprise Publishing company for five years during two of which he was a director of the Business Men's Association.

Serves Citizens' Group
When, late last year, the Citizens' Unemployment Emergency Committee sought a manager for its relief and employment office, Speed was chosen, serving until his resignation a few days ago. In the eight months of his management the work grew from nothing to a monthly cash turnover as high as $2200 and on Speed's retirement the books showed $3000 in the bank and securities held by the office of $4200 more. In the meantime thousands of dollars had been distributed in relief of many kinds. Two financial clinics for several years. But all the time I was away I held property in Orange county and paid taxes here, so I have always kept in close touch with this region.

Never Held Office
"I have never held an elective public office. My interests have always been and still are with the fellow who foots the bills, the taxpayer. I believe governmental costs must be reduced to the last degree possible without impairing governmental efficiency. The taxpayer has every right to full value and best service for his money.

"The unemployment problem is one of the most serious matters confronting us and no great degree of prosperity can be regained till we find its solution. In many months of close contact with the unemployed of Santa Ana I have come to have their interests very much at heart and if I have merited the confidence of the voters of this district to the extent of being elected assemblyman I shall work wholeheartedly for such measures as look toward getting the wheels of industry turning once more. Every head of a family has a right to employment whereby he can support his family. I have come to know the personnel of our unemployed group intimately, come to know them almost without exception as self-respecting citizens who ask nothing but that which should be theirs—the opportunity to earn the comforts of life for their loved ones.

Independent Candidate
"I believe I have the intimate knowledge of Orange County essential to the protection of its interests. The next few years will see great growth and striking changes in California. No man should be allowed on any of its law-making bodies except those who understand its problems, have clear vision, are not afraid to stand up for justice and right, have unblemished records for integrity, and lastly have definite, forward-looking objectives in view and the intestinal fortitude to go after them."

Speed declares himself an independent candidate, altogether free from entangling alliances with any group, clique or newspaper.

ALL DAY PICNIC IS HELD IN PARK HERE

ANAHEIM, June 29.—An all day picnic was held in the city park yesterday by members of the Eucalyptus class of the Calvary Baptist church. Sewing and a picnic luncheon was enjoyed throughout the day.

There were present as guests Miss Hazel Gibson, Mrs. May Maury, Mrs. Rosetta Gibson, Miss Lucille Wade, Miss Grace Gleason and the members, the Mesdames Luella Beardsley, Bess Mott, Hazel Bowen, Wilma Dodd, Belle McAfee, Bessie Wade, Vera Ball, Sarah Gardner, Helen Hanson, Stella Cooley, Virginia Combs, Ethel Hemphill, Anne Wilson, Elizabeth Cook, Ethel Jackson, Iphigenia Grow and Mele Ledbetter.

PROGRAM FOR BAND CONCERT IS ANNOUNCED

Tomorrow evening will mark the first of the series of concerts to be presented weekly by the Santa Ana Municipal Band in Birch park.

The program which has been arranged for this week by D. C. Clanton, conductor of the organization, will include representatives of practically all of the civic musical organizations. Many of the members of the local band also lend their efforts in the Santa Ana Symphony Orchestra during the winter season. In spite of the hardships suffered and the stress of the times, these men have remained faithful throughout a winter of strenuous rehearsals for the compensation which comes to them during the summer.

The Santa Ana Civic Chorus which is one of the features of the week's program draws its membership from Santa Ana's two outstanding choral organizations, the Cantando Club and the Treble Clef Club. These two organizations have proved their merit in civic musical activities and their worth in the community and as artistic organizations is unquestioned.

Although Santa Ana's community dramatic organization is not actively represented in this week's concert, the symphony orchestra is highly indebted to Santa Ana Community Players for their splendid aid in the publicity for the last orchestra concert of the winter season.

Thus the citizens of Santa Ana may look with pride to all of their local organizations which are such great assets to the community and which will be represented in the concert on Thursday evening of this week.

The following will be the program for tomorrow evening:

March, "American Spirit" Buglions.
Overture, "Zampa" Herold.
Selection, "The Desert Song" Romberg.
Vocal, "Gypsy Love Song" Herold.
Vocal, "The Fortune Teller" Santa Ana Civic Chorus.
Selection, "The Red Mill" Herbert.
"Hungarian Fantasy" Tobani.
Valse, "Jolly Fellows" Volsteadt.
March, "Up the Street" Morse.

"Light One for ME"

It's pretty hard to be around a Chesterfield and not want one. That tempting aroma tells you the truth. It says... "Here's a milder cigarette. Here's one that tastes better."

Sure... there's a good reason. Several, in fact. Chesterfields contain the finest tobaccos grown.

These tobaccos are not only blended, they're cross-blended in Chesterfield's own special way.

They are rolled in the purest paper that money can buy. Grown right. Cured right. Blended right. Made right. Packed right. That's Chesterfield.

In fact, there isn't any way for a cigarette to be purer, milder or better tasting.

No wonder so many millions of smokers say "THEY SATISFY."

Stars Vanquish Torrance, 7-1

ERRORS ASSIST CHAMPIONS TO EASY VICTORY

The "Santa Ana jitters," a disease common to baseball teams playing Santa Ana's champion Stars, seized Torrance yesterday night simultaneously with the opening of the National Night league's second half. Before Dr. "Spud" Murphy, Torrance's guardian, could prescribe a remedy that took effect, Santa Ana had piled up a commanding lead, had won, 7-1.

The "jitters" first attacked Torrance in the second inning. Pitcher Roy Hargis nervously walked "Rosy" Merrill. Ed Daley was safe when First Baseman Wolf dropped an easy throw from Third Baseman Leonard. Then, with two away, "Jumpin' Joe" Cornelius, Santa Ana's hurler, grounded harmlessly to Second Sacker Barrett who spent what seemed like a lifetime kicking the ball around in front of him. After he got through kicking it, he couldn't pick the ball up. By the time the "jitters" wore off, both Merrill and Daley had scored.

Ballard's Double Scores Two
The mysterious ailment was apparent again in the third inning when Santa Ana added three more runs. "Memph' Hill singled in field and L. Daley sacrificed. Hapes hit a hard ground ball but directly in front of the unhappy A. champion who spent what seemed like a lifetime kicking the ball around in front of him. After he got through kicking it, he couldn't pick the ball up. By the time the "jitters" wore off, both Merrill and Daley had scored.

Torrance Scores Early
Torrance got its only run off Cornelius in the first inning. Lower beat out a hit to Hill, after two were gone, and Leonard soaked a healthy triple against the wall in left-center to score him.

Tom Denney, former Whittier outfielder, played his first league game for Santa Ana. Manager George Lackaye used him at third base and the ex-Poet footballer conducted himself faultlessly in defense in addition to hitting safely twice. George Fraebie, regular second baseman, was out of commission, a severe sunburn so Leavitt Daley moved to second base, and Hill played shortstop.

Santa Ana's game with Huntington Beach, scheduled at Huntington Beach Friday, will be held in the Bowl here.

Were "Hot" Last Year
In 1931 Coach Dean Cronwell brought his boys along slowly, pointing them for the intercollegiate, and in this meet many of them surpassed by far their best previous efforts. Bill Graber setting a new I. C. 4-A record of 14 feet, 1-2 inch in the pole vault; Barber setting a new mark of 25 feet, 3 1-2 inches in the broad jump. Bob Hall making his best throw of the season to win the shot put at 49 feet 1-7-8 inches; Vic Williams tying Ted Meredith's record of 47.4 seconds in the 440 and Ernie Payne tying the long-standing low hurdle record of 23.6 seconds. Frank Wykoff, the sixth Trojan I. C. 4-A champ of 1931, set a new meet mark of 9.6 seconds in the 100, making five meet records that Southern Californians either broke or tied.

It is doubtful if the Trojans can equal their record-smashing spree this year, but Coach Cronwell believes that many of them are now set for their best effort of the 1932 season.

Wykoff Ready for Delby
Frank Wykoff's 10.4-second mark in his recent 100-meter dash victory over Hec Dyer, former Stanford star, showed that he is getting over his back injury and will be ready for his "rubber" race with Bob Kiesel of California in the 100.

Southern Californians, which will seek to win permanent possession of the I. C. A. A. A. champion-ship trophy by winning it for the fifth time, has participated in the National Intercollegiate since 1924, winning four firsts and taking second, fourth, sixth and sixteenth.

In the eight years in the intercollegiate championships, the Trojans have scored 221 17-28 points, averaging 27 3-4 per meet.

Test Option Bet Legality At Dog Track

CULVER CITY, June 28.—(UP)—Attempts to halt dog racing in Southern California were instituted late last night when district attorney's investigators arrested 13 men at the Culver City Kennel club on charges of violation of the gambling laws.

One of those arrested was Charles Carmichael, president of the $150,000 plant which opened a week ago. District Attorney Buron Pitts said the raid was made so that the men could be taken into court and the legality of dog track "option betting" tested.

Carmichael denied "option betting" was in violation of gambling laws, and through Attorney David H. Clark, said he welcomed a test case.

REVEAL JACOBS $100,000 YEAR DEAL WITH MAX

BY FRANK G. MENKE
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, June 28.—The Grand canyon is no deeper than the sorrow of Joe Jacobs, the Sahara desert no greater than the anguish of the manager of Max Schmeling, the German leather flipper.

And it is all because of the contract between Jacobs and Schmeling, which Schmeling practically dictated for Schmeling's chief benefit.

When the German arrived on the broad acres, under the management of Arthur Bulow and began to exhibit major flaccid possibilities, Jacobs bought a slice of him and, later on, when Schmeling and Bulow split, the aforementioned Jacobs experienced the wild wish to be the sole manager.

Max Wanted Guarantee
Which was perfectly all right with Schmeling, except that Max wanted to be guaranteed something like a salary each season over a period of five years. So instead of agreeing to the usual gambling proposition, whereby the champion gets two-thirds and the manager one-third, of all earnings, Schmeling, according to Jacobs, put it thus:

"I will make with you a five-year contract. Every year I must be paid no less than $100,000 by you. Each year when I make more than $100,000, 50 per cent of my profit shall be yours and that 50 per cent will be your pay for managing me."

Jacobs pondered. Schmeling nudged him a bit.

"I must know—quick. Other men are anxious to manage me on those terms."

"Sold," replied Jacobs. Jacobs said now

Jacobs is murmuring the very same word these days, as he zips along the highways, or parks in spots where sympathy can be found.

In 1931 Schmeling's earnings were around $150,000. This gave Der Max $125,000 and Jacobs a mere $25,000.

Schmeling's share for the Sharkey fight last week was about $322,000. Of this, the German gathers unto himself $166,000 and Jacobs picks up $66,000, making a grand total of $166,000 for two years which would be very nice indeed were it not for the existence of that contract and the fact that the German's crown was shooed off by his scalp.

As non-champion, Schmeling, if he ever gets another crack at Sharkey, must be content with 12 1-2 per cent—or less—as non-champion he won't gross much in exhibitions. And, also, as non-champion, he will get only small chance for any fistie outings in 1932, 1934 and 1935.

OLYMPIC HOPES

Almost completely hidden in an account of Southern California's easy dual meet victory over San Francisco's Olympic clubmen recently was a sentence which said "Dick Barber returned to competition after a long layoff."

It means, simply, that wherever Uncle Sam's Olympic chances are discussed, the Trojan will be prominent in any mention of broadjumping talent.

Barber had been on the shelf since last fall. He played his first college football with the 1931 Trojan eleven and was good enough to become first substitute for Jim Musick, veteran fullback. But he was injured late in the season, and the injury responded slowly to treatment.

Mid-April found Barber ready for a few trial jumps. He was entered against the Olympic clubmen April 17. On his first effort he fouled. His second measured 24 feet 7 inches, a foot farther than the best jump of teammate or foe.

Barber is 22, weighs 170 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall. He won national recognition May 29, 1931, when he broke the intercollegiate broad jump record at Philadelphia with a leap of 25 feet 31-2 inches.

ANAHEIM BEATS WESTMINSTER OLIVE BEATEN

FINISHING THE FIRST HALF TIED FOR FIRST PLACE, RIVERSIDE AND RIALTO WILL BEGIN A TWO-OUT-OF-THREE GAME PLAYOFF FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE AMERICAN NIGHT LEAGUE ON JULY 13.

Rialto decided Colton, 8-3, and Riverside defeated Redlands, 5-0, in closing games Monday.

Colton withdrew from night baseball after the contest with Rialto, abandoning its franchise in the inland night baseball league because many of its players have lost employment at a large fruit packing concern at Colton.

Pomona replaces Colton in the second half which begins Friday.

Frankie Petrolle Shades Battalino

NEW YORK, June 28.—(UP)—The fighting Petrolles maintained their supremacy over Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion, when Frankie Petrolle of Schenectady, N.Y., unexpectedly won a 10-round decision over the Hartford slugger last night at Uenoboro stadium.

Frankie is the younger brother of Billy, famous "Fargo Express" who beat Battalino twice last winter. Petrolle weighed 141 pounds, Battalino 141-12.

Singles in the ninth inning by McKinley, Hulen, Morning and Neal, the last one scoring McKinley, gave Huntington Beach a 3-2 decision over Long Beach at Huntington Beach.

Both of the Acorns' runs off Howard Morning were homers, one by Ted Hermann in the sixth, one by Kenny Hyde in the seventh.

Errors figured prominently in the run-making off "Fuzzy" Downer, Long Beach chucker, in the third. Morning was safe and went to second on Landreth's error, scored when Third Baseman Hyde threw away Neal's grounder. In the sixth, Maness was safe on White's error, stole second, scored on McKinley's single.

WIMBLEDON, ENGL. June 28.—(UP)—Helen Jacobs of California won her way to the finals of the English tennis championship women's singles by defeating Mme. Rene Mathieu of France in a semi-final match today.

The scores were 7-5, 6-1.

It was a long match which included many uninteresting rallies. Miss Jacobs made soft returns of Mme. Mathieu's speedy drives. One rally ball crossed the net 85 times.

Miss Jacobs never trailed her opponent although Mme. Mathieu pulled up to five-all in the first set after trailing at 3-5. Mme. Mathieu was visibly annoyed when Miss Jacobs occasionally forced suspension of play for a few seconds to adjust her blue bandeau.

Mme. Mathieu also looked appealingly at her husband who was seated in the stands, when a questionable line decision was made.

The congratulations of the winner and condolences of the loser were accomplished in a manner worthy of one of the famous Moody-Jacobs greetings.

This time it was a handshake instead of a touching of finger tips, but the handshake was most perfunctory. This accomplished Mme. Mathieu established precedent by walking off the court alone instead of waiting for Miss Jacobs.

Henrique Maler of Spain and Miss Elizabeth Ryan of London entered the mixed doubles quarter-finals by defeating Jack Clemenson of Australia and Mrs. B. C. Covell of England, 5-7, 6-2, 6-0.

Andre Morlin and Christian Boususs of France reached the semi-final round of men's doubles by winning, 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 over the Japanese team of Ryuki Miki and Jiro Satoh.

Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, defeated Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia and John S. Olliff of England, 6-4, 3-6, 8-6, 6-3, in another men's doubles quarter-final match. They will meet the French team of Boususs and Morlin in the semi-finals.

Van Ryn won almost single-handed, for Allison was exceptionally erratic.

George Hughes and Fred Perry of England also reached the semi-finals by defeating Sidney Wood of New York and Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., 7-5, 7-6, 6-2.

Wood and Mangin lost heart after the umpire awarded an advantage point deciding a game in the second set following a claim by Hughes, and Perry that Mangin's foot touched the net when making a successful smash.

BETTIS SHADES LEE IN 2-HOUR NET DUEL

A two-hour base line duel between Russell Lee and Frank Bettis, with Bettis finally winning, 9-7, 2-6, 6-4, provided a special added attraction to the opening yesterday of the Class B Public school. Willard junior high school. Nearly every game went to deuce at least once, so the outcome was always in doubt.

Eugene Robinson, defending champion, began his title defense with a 6-3, 6-4 decision over W. C. Smith. Dave Styling defeated W. P. Caverly, 6-2, 6-1. Franklin Burke won from Alfred Aut, 7-5, 6-3. Dr. Kenneth Coulson beat Brown, 6-2, 6-4.

Tomorrow's Class A schedule: White vs. Slaback; Zimmerman vs. Ward; Finster vs. Hafer; Cress vs. McPherson; Ward vs. Eustis; Moon vs. Wetherell.

In some ways "Rube" Walberg stars John McGraw passed up. McGraw paid $10,000 for a look at the Rube, back in 1923. The arrangement with Portland was that if John should decide to keep Walberg, he was to pay $20,000 more.

John kept the $20,000 and sent Walberg on his way swiftly. The Rube didn't even know how to stand the pitching rubber in those days.

Portland offered him to Connie Mack for $20,000. Mack looked him over and asked: "Where's your curve?"

The Rube didn't have any. But Mack didn't quit. He sent the Rube to Milwaukee to get one. And when George got back he had more curves than Mayor Jimmy Walker.

That was seven years ago—and the Rube won 20 games last year.

IT'S A CRUEL WORLD
Johnson, however, feels that the world has been unkind to him. His faith in justice has been rudely jolted. Henry has gone to his home at Bradenton, Fla., ostensibly to recover from an appendicitis operation he underwent during the spring training season, but really to brood and wonder.

"I'm on the voluntarily retired list," Henry told friends in Bradenton, "and I may be the rest of the year under medical treatment."

Henry needs not only physical treatment, but mental. And you would, too, if you were traded away from what looks to be a certain pennant winner this year.

GAVE GREAT PROMISE
Johnson has been knocking at the door of greatness for seven years. He first appeared in the training camp of the Yankees in 1925. He was then only 18 years old.

Huggins liked his work. He told the youngster that he had the stuff to become one of the best pitchers in the major leagues. Year after year, Johnson has repeated the promise of his first appearance. He pitched some remarkable games, but at other times his work was only fair. Certain hitters did, too. With lots of courage, a good curve ball and a fast ball that had the hop that players call "take-off," Henry still could not win consistently. What the Yankees needed this year was a consistent pitcher, and McCarthy thinks he has the man in MacPayden, an experienced campaigner.

Returning from the 1928 world series, the Yankees were celebrating their fourth straight victory over the Cardinals. Johnson sat with Huggins. Herb Pennock was in the group.

"I wish I had been given a chance to pitch in the world series," said Johnson.

To which Huggins made reply: "Boy, I'd give plenty to have your pitching arm and youth. You've got many years of baseball ahead of you and one of the best arms I ever saw."

GANDHI PRAISED BY DIRECTOR OF INDIA MISSION

PLACENTIA, June 29.—Gandhi is the greatest man of India and probably the greatest man in the world today working for the welfare of the people, in the opinion of Clifford Manshardt, recently home from a six-year stay in India, where he established a unique work for the Congregational mission, in the industrial slums of Bombay.

Mr. Manshardt is visiting his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Manshardt of East Orange, N. J., and expects to return to India September 21 on the Tatyto Maru by way of Hong Kong. He is accompanied by his wife and by his two sons, Thomas and Michael, both of whom were born in Bombay.

His contact with Gandhi has been frequent and according to Manshardt is a greater religious than political leader. At the present time India is engaged in a struggle that will free her from England, but will give her a certain amount of political independence and self government that will be satisfactory, he said.

On his return from India last fall, Manshardt was on the same boat with Gandhi, who was coming to the Round Table conference in England. During the past year, Mr. Manshardt has been teaching at the University of Chicago, theological department.

The work of Manshardt in Bombay, conducted in the Nagpada Neighborhood house, is a Christian missionary work that tends to bring together all nationalities and religions on a humanitarian basis, for social uplift, according to the visitor.

The mission, conducted by Manshardt with 25 native helpers, is situated in a congested slum district where 25,000 persons are living in a district that covers less than four square blocks.

During the past year an average of 300 persons visited the neighborhood house each day, where dispensary treatment, infant welfare and prenatal treatment, maternity cases, and all other phases of welfare work and relief treatment were given. Last year was the fourth year of operation of the house.

Besides the assistance given to all who need it, an employment bureau is operated in connection with the neighborhood house. Public lectures and entertainment are sponsored and there are 403 students enrolled in the education classes, where work in Urdu, Marathi, English, music, shorthand, typewriting, adult education, training for social workers, sewing, literacy, public health classes for women are given. Besides these, there is a daily play and recreation program.

Another summer guest at the Manshardt home is a daughter, Miss Vera Manshardt, who is connected with the Hindman Settlement school in the mountains of Kentucky. Miss Manshardt is to return to her work this fall.

Long Beach And Anaheim To Have Floats At Beach

NEWPORT BEACH, June 29.—Anaheim and Long Beach will have civic entries in the 14th annual Tournament of Lights, to be held in Newport Bay July 16, it was definitely stated today by the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce by representatives of the Anaheim and Long Beach chambers, respectively.

Long Beach is expected to have an entry depicting rowing, one of the Olympic games, which will take place at the new rowing course in Long Beach. This year special trophies will be awarded to entries depicting nations and games in the Tenth Olympiad, starting just two weeks after the lights fiesta, also for George Washington Bicentennial entries. Anaheim, winner of the sweepstakes cup in last year's lights carnival, has not yet worked out its scheme, but it will be announced in a few days, it was stated.

Other Orange county towns to have entries include Laguna Beach, San Clemente and Tustin, according to entries so far received. Several others are expected from this county, as well as some from outside the county, including Pasadena.

BEACH AUXILIARY NAMES DELEGATES

NEWPORT BEACH, June 29.—The Newport Harbor American Legion auxiliary met in regular session Monday night at the hut. The auxiliary president, Mrs. Viola Webster, Mrs. Jo Payne and Mrs. Rose Mellett were chosen as delegates to the convention to be held the last week in August, and the first of September, while Lola Anderson, Mamie St. Claire and Elizabeth Turner are the alternates. The rehabilitation chairman reported $22 spent in the work during June and $12 was used in welfare work.

A social hour was spent playing bridge following the business session. Mrs. Frances Dodge received the door prize, and Mrs. Ross Hostettler and Mrs. Gladys Clough prizes at bridge.

School Trustees Reduce Expenses

WESTMINSTER, June 29.—An attempt at reduction of expenses on supplies for the coming school term in the two schools of the district, the Westminster and Hoover districts, is being made by the trustees of the school, A. L. Hill, Matt Cochran and Clyde Day, and the principal of the school, James M. Monroe. It is hoped to keep this expense down to approximately $1000, a 20 or 30 per cent cut on past expenses. It is expected that there will be an increase of about 60 or 70 pupils in the school next year. As there were no graduates from Hoover this term and but five or six reach the age of 16 years and have quit school, the increase will be considerable as but 27 graduates were in this year's class at Westminster.

CLUB ENTERTAINED

PLACENTIA, June 29.—Mrs. A. J. Barnhart was hostess to the X. Y. Z. club for the June meeting Monday. After luncheon, Mrs. A. L. Anderson was winner of high score and Mrs. J. R. ## ENGINEER FOR WATER FIRMS SHOWS CHARTS

PLACENTIA, June 29.—Orange county gets considerable more water in her basin than San Bernardino water basin, according to William W. Hoy, engineer for the Santa Ana River Development company, holding corporation for the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company and the Anaheim Union Water company, largest users of Santa Ana river water in Orange county.

He talked yesterday at the Placentia Chamber of Commerce meeting and showed charts, made on records of the United States geological survey reports, over a period of years.

These charts, which he had compiled himself, he used to refute a statement said to have been made by him that at the present rate, there would be no water in the valley within 10 years. He said his statement was that unless rainfall was increased over the average the past ten years, there would be no water in the basin ten years hence.

He based his statement on the trend at Prado basin over a period of years and said he covers the 80 points of maintenance of canals each month.

One chart showed the Prado, Juniper, Colton and San Bernardino basins, and in answer to questions, he asserted that the holding or the spreading of water in the upper basin has little immediate effect on the lower basin of the river.

Spreading of water in the upper basins, or any conservation program, tends to maintain an assured supply, according to his estimates.

Hoy said the records of wells in Orange county since 1922 made personally by him until the flood control office took it over shows that the trend of water is downward at present.

A. S. Bradford presided at the session. E. M. Everett announced a membership committee meeting was to be held this afternoon to arrange to contact new members of the community who have come in recently.

W. C. T. U. HEAD HITS ALCOHOL FOR MEDICINE IN COSTA MESA

FULLERTON, June 29.—"Difficult as it is going to be in this coming political campaign to get our minds from the political to the educational, yet nevertheless, we must retain the educational angle if we are to accomplish lasting benefit," Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess, state and national director of scientific temperance instruction department of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, told members of Fullerton union yesterday afternoon.

The women met with Mrs. M. R. Colborn, 110 Yale avenue, where Mrs. Hess talked on "Medical Temperance."

She quoted many of the most famous doctors of the world as against use of alcoholic medicines and declared that the principle of medical temperance is fundamental and is centered in the home where a medicine chest is located.

"The conscientious, progressive physician does not use alcoholic medicines," she said in part.

"We are decades away from when we started, when Dr. N. S. Davis in America and Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson in England both took a stand against use of alcoholic medicine."

Cites Authorities

"At present those who are determined to bring back alcoholic beverages are playing on the medicinal and nutritive value of beers and wines. We who know the tricks of these associations for breaking down the 18th amendment know that such men as Richard C. Cabot, professor of the Harvard Medical school; as Sir Victor Horsley, England; Dr. Francis G. Benedict, Carnegie Nutrition laboratory, Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous surgeon of Rochester, Minn.; Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur; Dr. Arthur Dean Bayam, head of the department of surgery, Rush Medical school; Dr. Haven Emerson, former health commissioner of New York City; Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, Battle Creek, Mich.; Dr. Franklin H. Martin, president of the American College of Surgeons, Chicago, and Dr. Courtney C. Weeks, M. R. C. S., L. R. C. P. of London, all are outspoken in their condemnation of alcohol as being useful as a drink or as a medicine."

"Dr. Howard Kelly of John Hopkins has been quoted as saying that 'I wish the army of drunkards that has been recruited through the medical men could be marched behind the American Medical association.'"

Drugs Attacked

Mrs. Hess also attacked the use of drugs and declared that "When we get immediate relief from any pain through use of medicine of any kind, we can be certain we are getting the nerves paralyzed, and are not getting a medicine that is reaching the seat of the trouble."

According to the speaker, the work of the International Wine bureau is to convince people that drinking is beneficial and through them untrue reports are read into investigations. She cited a recent investigation in Buffalo, New York, where the conditions in Canada, where there is government control of sale of liquors, was praised.

Mrs. Hess said her investigation in Canada proved those reports of temperance under control as false and that youth is drinking in Canada, too, in spite of propaganda that only in United States is the youth drinking excessively.

The debt question has not been cleared in Canada, either, according to Mrs. Hess, where figures taken from British Columbia show that six years ago the province was 20 million dollars in debt, and at present, under government control of liquor sales, the province is more than 120 millions dollars in debt.

Accidents Show Gain

As to drunken driving in Canada, she said that in that province, accidents have increased 1,300 percent in six years.

Mrs. Hess touched on the political situation, but said that as representative of the W. C. T. U., little could be said on the course the women will take until a report of the board of statistics has been received.

Mrs. Ursula Zinke announced that next meeting will be July 12 at the Presbyterian church, all day. The Tuesday morning broadcasts over KREG, Santa Ana, started yesterday, were announced. Fullerton union will broadcast August 9.

Fifteen new members of W. C. T. U. have been accepted, it was announced.

LUXURY TAX IS SUGGESTED BY ROBERT SWINK

ANAHEIM, June 29.—Suggesting a luxury tax as a means of remedying the unfair tax burden that real estate is bearing in California, Robert Swink of Pasadena talked to the members of the Kiwanis club yesterday noon when they met at the Elk's clubhouse and said that real property is bearing more than 35 per cent of the tax load and is producing but 26 per cent of the state's income.

He declared that a slight tax on tobacco and cosmetics would not be felt by the taxpayers and that a total of $44,000,000 could be raised and used for school purposes. To do this the speaker stated in favor of a measure that would levy an income tax to be supported by a selective sale.

In presenting his arguments in favor of this measure Swink said that since 1910 when numerous California tax laws were passed the county government costs went up 400 per cent and school costs went up 700 per cent although property values increased but 250 per cent. The speaker was introduced by J. S. Howard, member of the Anaheim Realty board who was also a guest for the day.

There are 11 members of the United States Interstate Commerce Commission.

ANAHEIM, June 29.—Working towards the completion of plans for the Diamond Jubilee on September 16 when the city of Anaheim will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary William Addison Brown, chairman of the Anaheim "At Home" night today explained a number of plans that are now in progress.

M. O. D. Group Quits Orange Proration Association

FOREIGN TRADE,
GIVEN AS ONE
CAUSE FOR ACT

Announcement has been made by C. P. Earley, general manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors, of the withdrawal by that cooperative from the California orange pro-rate agreement. The machinery of the agreement was set in motion by the Orange County Farm Bureau. Previous to the announcement of the withdrawal by the M. O. D., similar notice had also been served on the pro-rate committee by the Gold Buckle association of Redlands and Highland, it is said. The Gold Buckle association is headed by J. S. Edwards. The decision by the M. O. D. to withdraw from the pro-rate agreement was made necessary largely by five points, as explained by Mr. Earley. These points are:
Tonnage Control Cut
With the filing of notice of the withdrawal of the Gold Buckle association, the controlled tonnage had dropped below the 90 per cent basis which was the heart of the agreement.
The determination of the other citrus cooperative to include in the pro-rates the export tonnage to be shipped by the M. O. D. also was a point of contention. So far this season, it is said by J. A. Steward, sales manager of the M. O. D., that organization has exported 15 per cent of its Valencia tonnage, and he does not believe that the pro-rate machinery was set up to be used to penalize any sales policy which increases the world consumption of California citrus fruits, but that the pro-rate should apply only to domestic shipments.
Lack of action by the growers' committee in settling this export difference aided to bring about the withdrawal:

Claim Speculation Forced
And, also, as explained by M. O. D. officials, the operations of this pro-rate, as they were developing, threatened to tear down much of the effectiveness of California's cooperative sales effort, by forcing growers into speculative channels.
Under the pro-rate agreement, due to the basis of the proration, the M. O. D. was prevented actually from filling the orders from its regular customers for quality fruit.
"The M. O. D. has not had distribution problems of its own," it was further explained by Mr. Earley. "We have had the closest cooperation among our associations and our growers in the following of our own marketing problems from season to season. There has been almost no variation between the pre-season estimates as given by the managers of the houses, and the actual carloads of fruit as shipped during the season. We have successfully sold this fruit; we have had, and continue to have, active markets. Our returns from season to season are proof of what these markets have brought our growers. In a word, we have always worked together, closely."
"The big problem of the industry is one largely outside ourselves; this is the fact of the increasing distribution of low-grade fruit, loose packed, through-out the markets of the west to the good grades. The pro-rate agreement, as adopted, does not solve this problem, does not even touch it."
Plan Ignored
"At the outset of the growers' conferences, the M. O. D. submitted a plan for pro-rating based upon the authority to be given by the growers to dispose of the surplus fruit into some non-competing channels of trade. This was based upon the fact that all other controlling movements have failed in the past, and we believed that the M. O. D. plan used the workable features in these other agreements, the producer must legally give authority; and, second, the producer must legally authorize disposition of the surplus into non-competing channels.
"The plan finally agreed upon did not contain these essentials, and hence it was ineffective from the start."
"We did not go into the agreement expecting to be penalized because we had successfully built up profitable foreign markets; we contend that these outlets are to the benefit of the California citrus grower—especially, as has been the case so far this season, when these outlets bring 60 cents, or more, a box than the grower would have received in domestic sales. And we did not go into the agreement in the belief that we would be compelled to argue unsuccessfully for points which we know are of benefit not only to our own growers but to the entire industry.
"Twice this question of export included in the domestic pro-rate was passed up by the growers' committee; we had no belief that it would be settled to our satisfaction."

ASSISTANT FARM ADVISOR
URGES REST FOR COWS TO IMPROVE MILK PRODUCTION
By W. M. CORY, Assistant Farm Advisor
ALL DAIRYMEN want heavy production and normally carry on a breeding program that will insure a gradual improvement in production. It is a serious mistake to overlook the possibility of injuring the cow by improper care and management previous to and during lactation. Heavy production is always a drain on the cow, even when she inherits it.
Milk and butterfat have been manufactured out of certain very definite elements taken in with the feed. As an illustration of the need for a rest after a long period of heavy production, recent investigations indicate that the special value of the dry period is probably to allow the animal time for replenishing the mineral supply of the body. Calcium, for instance, is likely to be involved. It is a belief supported by evidence that milk fever is probably due to a temporary deficiency in the calcium of the blood. Since heavy producers are most subject to milk fever, the suggestion is that these heavy producers should be given ample time in which to recover from a long period of heavy production.
The length of the dry period should be regulated in so far as possible by the condition of the individual cow. Under ordinary conditions, six weeks is not too long and if the cow is in poor flesh, the dry period should last at least two months.
The physical condition of the cow at times of freshening has a great deal to do with production. An illustration suppose a cow capable of producing 40 pounds of milk daily under favorable conditions was allowed to freshen while in poor condition. Instead of the normal 40 pounds only 30 pounds was produced daily and the decline from this 30 pounds would be about as rapid as when the cow started out with 40 pounds. Definite records are to be had supporting this contention that poor condition at time of freshening will tend to reduce production very materially.
If a cow is producing as little as 10 pounds of milk a day she may be dried up at any time without any fear of trouble. The udder should not be milked out at all under these conditions. Where a cow is producing more than 10 pounds of milk, first endeavor to pound on feed. All grain feeding should be discontinued. Roughages consisting largely of cereal hay or silage will serve to reduce milk production. Then with once a day milking, followed by every other day milking or as the udder becomes unduly distended. By taking ten days or two weeks in drying up heavy milkers no injury will result. A shorter time will be necessary for the lighter milkers. Some dairymen are sealing the teats with collodion when ready to dry up an animal. If the seal should become broken the entire udder should be milked dry and the seals replaced. This should not be attempted until pro-

CITY TO FILE
NEW PLEA FOR GAS TAX FUND
The board of supervisors yesterday afternoon refused to grant a request made by City Attorney Clyde Downing to make a flat decision on whether or not the city of Santa Ana would be given $55,285 through the city street maintenance fund, to be used by the city to pay off bonds which are due and payable Friday, although Chairman John Mitchell indicated that the board felt more favorable towards giving the city the money from the gas tax fund than was indicated in the morning session.
Mitchell said that it "might be possible" that the city's request might be granted if it were possible to grant the pleas of all the cities that asked for the funds and to work the funds out of county money available and incorporated in appropriations in the county budget, which is in process of formulation.
Although the board of supervisors declined to act on the requests of Santa Ana for the $55,285, Newport Beach for $25,200, Huntington Beach for $12,000 and Brea for $4,000, a total of $9,085, through statements made by Mitchell, no official action was taken on refusing the request for the money.
Mitchell asked that the city of Santa Ana place a written request with the supervisors for the money, through action taken by the city council. Such a resolution was presented to the board at the meeting yesterday by Huntington Beach council, which held a special meeting yesterday to adopt the resolution. Mitchell pointed out that it might be better if all the cities requesting money file written applications so action could be taken on all at once. Action on the matter may be taken at the meeting next Tuesday.

"The Wet Parade," declared "Uncle Tom's Cabin of Prohibition," has been dramatized from Upton Sinclair's novel by Mina Maxfield and Lena Eggleston. The local organization today completed arrangements with the Players Guild of Pasadena for the charity performances here. The dates will be announced next week. Production has been presented to capacity audiences in Long Beach, Glendale and Los Angeles.
Plan Street Parade
Newcomb and Merchant are anxious to secure the co-operation of local organizations in order that the proceeds may go to the proper authorities for distribution to the needy. An attempt to stage a parade in Santa Ana as headquarters for "The Wet Parade" will be made before the city council at its next meeting, it was planned today.
Arrangements for the presentation of "The Wet Parade" has temporarily postponed the local Theater Guild's presentation of Noel Coward's play, "Private Lives" scheduled as the first 1932 production of the local group. "Private Lives" will be given later in the summer.
Catharine Countess Hanna directed the Pasadena Players in "The Wet Parade." The cast includes Bernice Thomas, C. M. FARM ADVISORS
STUDY MARKETS
FOR PRODUCTS
The various market facilities of Los Angeles for farm products produced in the southwest were inspected by a committee of farm advisors of the University of California last Friday, including H. E. Wahlberg and W. M. Cory of Orange County. The tour was made to better familiarize the group with the Los Angeles outlets for farm production since an unusually heavy run of inquiries has been directed to the farm advisors' office during the past season for market information.
The facilities offered by Los Angeles are comparable to any city of its size in the United States and are superior to many cities, according to H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, who has visited markets in many of the eastern cities.
The committee inspected the Wholesale Terminal Market, the City Market, the Eighth Street Market, the California Fruit Growers auction for loose fruit, the melon auction tracks, the Western Dairy Products plant, the Poultrymen's Cooperative Association and Calavo Growers Association.
H. W. Wright, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County, addressed the group at noon. He explained that Los Angeles county had the highest agricultural income of any county in the United States. He commended the Agricultural Extension staff for promoting better knowledge of marketing projects at this time, as marketing is the big problem of agriculture today.
Carlyle Thorpe, manager of the California Walnut Growers Association; H. Powell, sales manager for the California Fruit Growers Exchange; E. J. Fleming, president of the City Market and Walter Teague, general manager of the Los Angeles Union Terminal Company, were also members of the party.

Orange County to Join Los Angeles
And Build Bridge

Orange county will join with Los Angeles county in constructing a bridge at a point where the two county lines meet at La Palma street in the northern part of the county as the result of action taken by the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon when they authorized Nat. Neff, county superintendent of roads, to go ahead with the project.
The county's share will amount to around $2000 in costs for the bridge. The contract was to be let to a Hollywood concern.
An application for a license to operate a poolroom in La Habra was refused by the board on recommendations made by the sheriff and district attorney.

At Birthday Dinner
In Parents' Home

One of the happy family reunions so frequently enjoyed by the children of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wilcox, 618 West Second street, was held Monday evening when Mrs. Wilcox planned a chicken dinner in celebration of the birthday dates of two of their sons, John Wilcox of Costa Mesa, and Dwight Wilcox of this city.

Three brothers and their families assembled in the home of their parents for the enjoyable event, all approaching the delicious birthday dinner with the same gusto that they had possessed as lads. Covers were laid for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Wilcox, and son Billy; Mr. and Mrs. John Wilcox and daughter and son, Joan and Edmond; and Mr. and Mrs. Elvayne ("Benny") Wilcox, together with Howard McMillan, grandson of the hosts.

An evening of happy reminiscences and intimate chat followed the dinner hour, and before the family party broke up, Mrs. Wilcox served iced watermelon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McMillan of this city, son-in-law and daughter of the hosts, were unable to be present for the birthday celebration, as they are chaperoning a group of young Epworth League members of Spurgeon Memorial church on a mountain camping party. Their other son and daughter, Eugene and Larine McMillan, are with them.

Those comprising the party were Harold Higgs, Ray Cole, Leonard Eyster, Adrian Lantz, Floyd Klingenberg, Miss Louise Bach, Miss Grace Elliott, Santa Ana; Miss Gertrude O'Connell, Long Beach; Miss Ladore Barnes, Huntington Beach; Miss Roxie Warden, Anaheim; and Mr. and Mrs. Winton Nickles, Placentia.

V. F. W. Order Stages
Card Tournament

The card party in which the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization indulged Monday night in Pythian hall proved unusually successful in all details, according to patrons, who were enthusiastic today in their review of the event.

Bridge and 500 were the two card forms enjoyed, appropriate prizes having been provided for successful contestants in each. At bridge Mrs. John State and J. Lantz were fortunate in winning awards, while Miss Minnie Besser and Harold Hawley took consolation prizes. Mrs. Hazel Hall and John Soyland captured 500 rewards, low scorers at this game being James Pearson and Mrs. James Pearson.

Refreshments concluded the successful evening, supervised by Mrs. Paul Conrad, chairman; Mesdames Blanch Best, Clara Moran and James Householder.

Two Affairs Compliment
Miss Swanson on Eve
Of Marriage

Irvine park scene of many closing club activities in the past several weeks, witnessed another festivity of similar type last evening when the members of the Junior Fine Arts club journeyed to the canyon for a steak bake at which guests of honor were Miss Ruth Swanson and Carl Lykke, whose wedding date is but a day off. Miss Swanson has served the club on its field committee this past year.

Returning to the home of Ione Tunison Peak at 1612 North Broadway after the picnic, members found enjoyment in a program, participants in which were presented by Miss Hazel Stuckey, chairman. Contributing to this hour were Robert Dosier, Ross Boyd, Fred White, Jeanette Bodman, Hazel Stuckey and Mary Nalle.

Further entertainment was yielded by a mock wedding, carried out in humorous detail by a group of the members in honor of the engaged couple. A shower complimenting Miss Swanson and Mr. Lykke followed, the pair being presented with various attractive art gifts.

Present for this double event were the Mesdames Ruth Swanson, Emma Williams, Hazel Stuckey, Emma Pollock, Dorothy Rodman, Jeanette Bodman, Mary Nalle, Marjorie Gowen, Geneva Hartung, Damaris Peak, Mrs. J. D. Bodman of Newport Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Vial, Mrs. S. J. Swanson, Ione Tunison Peak, Messrs. Ross Boyd, Robert Dosier, Fred White, Ralph Gordon, Kenneth Kirkwood, Dean Hyatt, Stewart Peak, Carl Lykke and Glenn Phelder.

Feted at Bridge Shower

In further compliment to Miss Ruth Swanson, whose announcement of her engagement to Carl Lykke launched a train of happy pre-nuptial events in her honor, Mrs. Jeanette B. Tartsch, assisted by her niece, Mrs. Orland Smith of Garden Grove, entertained charmingly in the Tartsch residence at 807 North Broadway Monday night with a bridge affair to which were invited an intimate group of the bride-elect's friends.

While cards occupied guests pleasantly during the greater part of the evening, the refreshment hour proved especially delightful owing to the care which had been exercised in the planning of table decorations and of menu.

A pastel color motif was carried out exquisitely with pink rosebuds and baby breath, while the table service itself intrigued with its numerous heirloom pieces, ice cream molds, furthered the pastel scheme, being of basket work, tinted pink with flowers and handles of pink tied with yellow ribbon. Supper details were equally dainty, open face sandwiches being of heart shape, while mints were of mixed tints. Orange sticks, date bars and other delicacies completed an attractive menu.

A miscellany of shower gifts, which guests had brought for the honoree, was presented in novel manner, the presents being wheeled in on a tea cart upon which was perched a small pink parasol covered with rose petals and hung with colored streamers. The opening of the gifts was another pleasant feature of this evening's festivity.

Guests of Mrs. Tartsch and her niece, Mrs. Orland Smith, were the Mesdames Jean Pencock, Martha Tadlock, Emma Williams, Hazel Stuckey, and Charlean Shull; Mesdames Robert Delinger, H. P. Lykke and S. J. Swanson.

Former Santa Anan
Weds Teacher in Colorado

Wedding plans laid by Alvin J. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Martin, of 219 South Ross street, and Miss Emily Jackson of Craig, Colo., for June 23, were unexpectedly carried out nearly two weeks in advance, according to word received by parents of the bridegroom, who have just been advised that the marriage took place on Saturday, June 11.

Mr. Martin and his bride will make their home in Hamilton, Colo., where the Texas Petroleum company, with which the former Santa Anan has been associated as assistant superintendent of the Moffat Oil field for the past four years, has constructed a new home for them. Mr. Martin, who has a wide acquaintanceship in Santa Ana, received his education in Clarendon, Tex., where he attended Clarendon high school and Clarendon college.

Forum Members Appear
In Amusing Play at Final Session

Concluding an interesting and valuable year of study and discussion, members of the Women's Forum met last night in the Y. W. clubrooms for the purpose of electing a new staff of officers and sharing the social pleasures incidental to bringing their official year to a close.

Mrs. Ethel Carlson, who has served so capably as president of this progressive club, conducted the final business session of the season, and in the election which was its chief feature, those named were Mrs. A. A. Brock, president; Mrs. H. G. Huffman, vice president; Mrs. Jay C. Hamill, secretary, and Mrs. Luther Ray, treasurer.

This group will assume direction of forum affairs when regular meetings are resumed in early September after a mid-summer lapse in activities.

The remainder of the evening was purely social in nature and the home-like charm of the Y. W. Clubrooms seemed increased by the lavish use of flowers sent for the occasion by Mrs. Charlotte Wallace. Miss Hester Covington, chairman of the committee in charge of the program plans, presented a short musical interlude to which those talented sister musicians, the Mesdames Audrey and Beatrice Granas, contributed.

Miss Audrey's chosen violin solo was the Andante, "Tranquillo" by De Beriot, and her sister was her accompanist. Miss Beatrice then played as a piano solo, Chopin's "Ballade in G flat minor" with "Guitarre" by Moszkowski as an encore number.

To complete the entertainment interval, five members of the Forum presented the two-act comedy, "The Return of Aunt Deborah," in which they had been directed by Mrs. John Clarkson.

The playlet proved most entertaining and its amusing lines and situations were fully appreciated by the audience of some 60 Forum members and their friends. Parts in the play were "Miss Jane Tompkins," taken by Mrs. C. W. Hollister; "Miss Sarah Tompkins," by Mrs. J. G. Allen; "Margaret Lawrence," their niece, by Mrs. Carl Sutton; "Blossom Farrar," (Just out of boarding school) by Mrs. Escher Granas, and "Della," the Irish servant, by Mrs. F. E. Harrison.

During the informal social hour before the party came to a close, the social chairman, Mrs. R. H. Snyder, assisted by Mrs. R. R. Rusick, served punch and wafers.

Family Dinner Honors
75th Natal Day of
Mrs. A. A. Jones

Mrs. A. A. Jones, 1401 North Bush street, was the honor guest Sunday at a birthday dinner given at the ranch home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Jones who live east of Anaheim. As a delightful surprise, Mrs. Jones found that her four daughters with their families, had gathered in their brother's home to greet her, this having been the first time in 10 years that the mother, daughters and son had been together.

The dinner table was beautifully appointed with pink carnations and fern. The birthday cake, an angel food, was decorated in the chosen colors and was baked by the daughter of the home, Miss Priscilla Jones. Seventy-five pink candles, one for each year of the life of the honor guest, burned brightly on the cake.

The home was decked with gladioli and the afternoon was spent in pleasant reminiscences of the time the four sisters and their one brother lived under the same home roof.

Those present were the honor guest, Mrs. A. A. Jones, and daughter, Miss Vena Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Obar and daughter, Miss Shelley, of Strathmore, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Grant, their daughters, Mary and Alice and son, Thomas Grant, of Redick; the Rev. and Mrs. Howard Sulick; and daughter, Phyllis, of Pomona; and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Jones and daughter and son, Miss Priscilla Jones and George L. Jones Jr.

Addresses Given for Temperance Women
At Luncheon

Before a gathering of approximately 200 W. C. T. U. members and guests, the Rev. Samuel Edgerton, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church, the Rev. C. F. Martin, pastor of the Orange Avenue Christian church, and Sheriff Logan Jackson delivered addresses on problems pertinent to W. C. T. U. interests of the moment on the occasion of that organization's birthday luncheon, held yesterday in the Y. M. C. A.

Six long tables had been spread for the diners, with two members of the society presiding over each group and a birthday cake centering each table, appropriately decorated to represent a month in the year. Those whose birthday anniversaries fell within the several months represented, grouped themselves accordingly.

In addition to the featured addresses, an elaborate musical program was offered, this entertainment opening with a piano solo by Margaret Davies and continuing with instrumental selections by an Hawaiian trio, composed of Mrs. Clara Belle Hobard, Harold Hobard and Dorcas Elliott; violin selection by Barbara Gerard; solo by Professor F. Haynes, a vocal duet by the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Lindgren, and readings by Mrs. Margaret McClelland and Mary Boyd. Program participants were presented by Mrs. Henry Evans, president.

Yesterday's birthday luncheon was one of many which are being held all over Southern California at this season of the year by W. C. T. U. organizations. Arrangements were made by members yesterday for a meeting next month, to take place July 12.

Luncheon hostesses were Mesdames Nora Davis, Belle Leonard, Emma Wilson, Aea Vandermaast, Eldora Demarest, Lucy Leonard, Luella Stewart, Edna Leonard, Josephine Black, Lila Acker, Nellie Vance and Mary Seely.

NEW TEAM OF ENTERTAINERS TO BROADCAST

A new team of entertainers will make their debut tonight over radio KREG. Fred and Ted Garland, vocalist and pianist will present their initial program at 8 o'clock featuring light classics and specialty numbers. In the future they will be on the air every Wednesday at this time.

Both boys are well known in Orange county having appeared before service clubs and other organizations as entertainers. Studio officials are expecting this duo of artists to create a considerable following with their radio broadcasts.

Their initial program, tonight, will include "The Song of Songs," "Honey," arranged by Frank Black and a dance move, "Venetian Love Song," "Nevin," "For You Alone," "Gee," the song Caruso made famous; "Dizzy Fingers," Zex Confrey, famous novelty-piano composer, and "All Through the Night," an old Welsh melody.

KREG NOTES

"Guns of Doom" is the title of tomorrow's story to be told during the Tail-Spin program. This is an enthralling episode in the development of machine gunnery as applied to aircraft, how discoveries were made and of the crude applications in the beginning.

If you have any knowledge of Hollywood and want to make a display of it just tune in tonight on the Hollywood Keyhole program and see how many of "A. P. Pington's" questions you can answer. He will also discuss royalty, if any, in Hollywood.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 Barbara Krueger, five-year-old student of Lorena Croody will be honored at a studio birthday party. The party will be broadcast along with readings by Glenna Jean Liser and Betty Jane Hansen and a group of songs by Barbara Watson.

AARON GONZALEZ RETURNS TO KREG

Studio officials of KREG are happy to announce that Aaron Gonzalez, pianist-composer, has returned and will present a series of "dinner hour" concerts starting tonight at 6 o'clock. These programs will be presented every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night.

Listeners will remember the series of concerts Gonzalez presented several weeks ago. This group of offerings consisted of novelty numbers, medleys, and special numbers written by leading composers American and foreign. These programs featured light classics, "modernistic rhythm," and popular numbers of the day.

Gonzalez has been filling engagements in Orange and Los Angeles counties for the past few weeks but has returned to Orange county where he intends to remain. He has opened a studio in Anaheim and is teaching piano and organ for beginners as well as advanced students on both instruments.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Cherry Time, If You Maraschino

I am again asked to publish the recipe for putting up maraschino cherries. And, although I have published it at least umpteen times in the last four months, I am glad to do so again.

First, let's discuss the kind of cherries to be used: Royal Anne as first choice, because they are firm fleshed and take on color so beautifully. But this variety is often scarce and high priced, so the next best kind is a large canning cherry called "Kentish cherry." I think they have a jellifying quality I have found in no other cherry and an incomparable flavor.

Now the syrup for the cherries: I have found that an extremely heavy syrup gives the best results because cherries are so juicy an ordinary syrup becomes too diluted to keep well. Another reason for using the heavy syrup is this: After the cherries are ready for the jars, you'll find that you have a lot of left-over syrup. This can be bottled and used for frozen desserts, hot pudding sauces or a syrup for hot cakes.

Maraschino Cherry Formula

Pit enough cherries to weigh up 10 pounds. Dissolve a teaspoonful of alum in two quarts of cold water and let the pitted cherries stand in this bath all night. In the morning rinse them in cold water and let them drain. For the syrup, take six pounds of herry sugar and dissolve it in three cups of water. Bring it to the boil and cook until it spins a thread when dropped from spoon.

Add the cherries and cook them until done, but not until soft. At this time stir in, a teaspoonful of oil, enough vegetable coloring to make them the desired shade of red. Set the kettle aside until the next day. Again reheat over a very slow fire, and when the boiling point is reached set them aside for 24 hours.

On the third and last reheating, bring them to a rapid boil, cook two minutes and bottle in glass jars. For each quart of fruit and syrup add to the jar two tablespoonfuls of almond extract. Seal immediately and keep the jars turned end for end, for a few days to set the almond flavor in each bit of fruit.

TODAY'S RECIPE

French Rolls

1 cake compressed yeast
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg white, beaten stiff
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon salt
flour to make a firm dough
1-2 cup tepid water

Dissolve the yeast cake in the half-cup of tepid water, adding the sugar to it. Scald and cool the milk, and when the milk is cool enough start mixing the dough.

First, measure 11-2 cups of flour and mix it smoothly into the yeast liquid, next comes the stiffly beaten egg white and melted butter, well whipped into the mixture, and last of all, the cooled milk, be mixed in with enough more flour to make a dough firm enough to handle on the moulding board.

Knead it lightly, using as little flour as possible. Place the ball of dough in a buttered bowl, cover it and let rise in a warm spot until it has doubled in bulk. Cut off bits, mould lightly, then make balls the size of a walnut, place them close together in a pan, brush top with butter, cover and let rise until very light—half an hour should raise them. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

This recipe will make at least two dozen rolls. The calory total for the whole recipe amounts to 1965, practically all energy producers.

"Tonight or Never," the Samuel Goldwyn production for United States Artists, which comes to Walker's State theater today is the sixth production in which Gloria Swanson, the star, has appeared for United Artists, since the day when she turned down a million dollar a year in salary and decided to enter that organization on her own.

Among her outstanding successes under the United Artists banner have been "The Trespasser," her first talking picture, and "Sadie Thompson," her triumphant screen version of the famous play, "Rain," in which Joanne Eagles was starred on the stage, as well as "The Love of Sunya," "Indiscreet," and "What a Widow."

KAY FRANCIS OPENS TODAY AT WEST COAST

"Street of Women," starring Kay Francis, opens a two-day run at the Fox West Coast theater today.

Directed by Archie Mayo and based on the novel by Polan Banks which caused a sensation, due to its new line of entertainment, "Street of Women" is the story of a woman who falls in love with a married man. Her big problem is: "Should a love that is big and clean be kept a secret?"

How she works it out, the sacrifices she makes and the chances she takes, go to make exciting entertainment throughout.

Miss Francis is the whole show. She has an admirable cast to support her, but the lines, the show in full belongs to her and she captivates her audience from the first scene. The picture is her second big Warner Brothers production.

"MISS PINKERTON" COMING TOMORROW

Starting tomorrow, the Fox Broadway theater will present Mary Roberts Rinehart's great story, "Miss Pinkerton," which just recently has been released from the studio and which is playing in Santa Ana ahead of other cities in Southern California.

A great story of love in intrigue, of danger and sacrifice, the plot of "Miss Pinkerton," so well known, should prove one of the best entertainments that has been brought to the screen here in several months.

Joan Blondell and George Brent have the leading parts in the production, while Zasu Pitts is again seen in one of her typical roles which threatens to steal the performance at times.

THE TINYMIES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The juggler's legs were very strong. Said he, "Now, nothing will go wrong. I've practiced years to do this stunt and now I know it well."

"Why, I've tossed big men in the air and given folks a treat that's rare. So thrilling has my act been that I've oft made people yell."

Then Duncy said, as best he could, "Don't worry! I'll admit you're good and I am having lots of fun. Just toss me higher, please."

"As long as I don't take a flop, I really don't care when you stop. The man then caught wee Duncy, holding him real still, with ease."

"I'm going to make you do a turn. I'm sure that you will quickly learn just how to help me swing you 'round," he told the little lad.

"You may get dizzy for a bit, but soon you will get used to it. I have a hunch 'twill be the biggest thrill you've ever had."

The other Tinsies stood nearby and every one just seemed to sigh as Duncy turned a somersault and landed safe and sound. This happened several times and then the Tinsies started clapping when the man tossed Duncy out and let him land upon the ground.

The clapping made the lad feel proud and, turning to the little crowd, he said, "Hey, Coppy, it's your turn. You're clever as can be."

"I saw a cub bear right nearby and, if they'll let you, you should try to wrestle with the fellow. What a sight we all will see." The little cub bear was brought out and he was tame, there was no doubt. The keeper said to Coppy, "Go ahead and try your luck."

"The bear won't bite and, though he's strong, I'm sure that nothing will go wrong. Show all the other Tinsies that you have a heap of pluck."

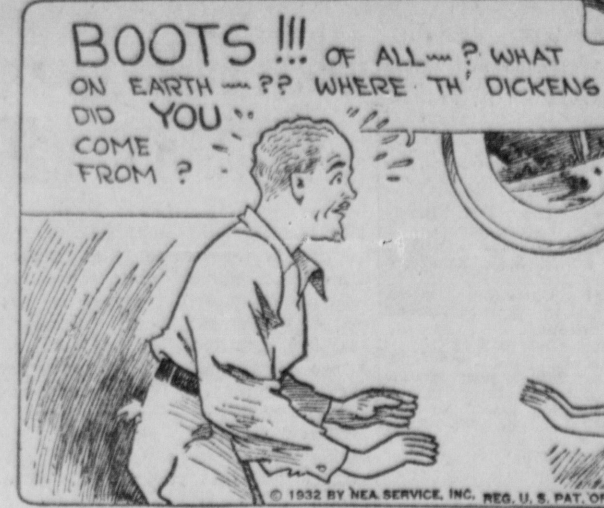

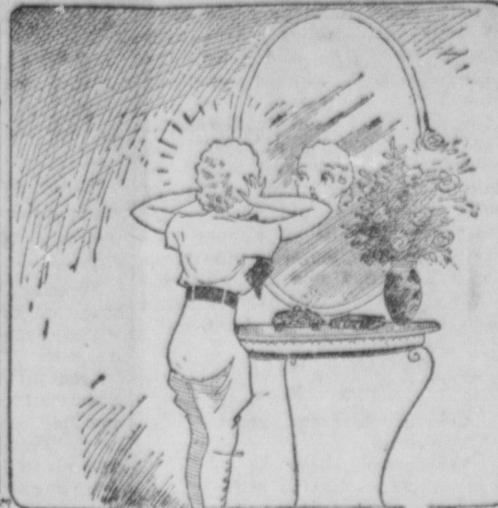

(The Tinsies have a lot of fun with a clown in the next story.)

How the Damon and Pythias of Grand Opera Ended Their Famous 17-Year Quarrel

And when the door was opened and Toscanini and Gatti-Casazza faced each other, two old men, all restraint vanished. . . . They were reunited—happy.

Rosina Galli, bride of Gatti-Casazza, who appeared at the age of nine in a production at La Scala . . . and, at the right, Arturo Toscanini, who paid his fare across the Atlantic and became reconciled with his old friend.

By DEXTER TEED

ARTURO TOSCANINI, called by critics the greatest conductor of all, waved a slender baton. Out behind him, a glamorous audience of noted men and women leaned forward, caught the fire of his leadership and watched breathlessly as his gray head and tense figure dynamically conveyed the emotion burning in him. Like all great artists he was living, not playing, his role.

It was 17 years since he and his beloved fellow countryman, Giulio Gatti-Casazza, in a flash of artistic temperament, had severed their fine friendship. For 11 years they had not seen each other. Now Toscanini had come back the 4500 miles from Italy to New York to conduct a benefit performance for musicians in distress. Carnegie Hall was crowded. Gatti-Casazza was not there.

And Toscanini was leading Beethoven's stirring Ninth Symphony, which hymns the brotherhood of man!

It must have touched his soul as chorus and orchestra swung into the moving climax and brought one of his greatest triumphs. For Toscanini's eyes were moist and his slender body trembled as he finished, with an ovation following. He had lived through the score of the brotherhood of man. He was shaken by its import.

OUTSIDE he was met by Mrs. Gatti-Casazza and two of his friends, Bruno Zirato and Margherita da Vecchi. There were moments of congratulation, then they turned, delicately, to the problem of effecting a reconciliation with Gatti-Casazza, who was ill in his apartment. Many times friends had tried to bring them together—and had failed. Would he go?

Toscanini bowed his head. They said nothing, but stared. And when the door was opened and Toscanini and Gatti-Casazza faced each other, two old men, all restraint vanished.

They flung arms around each other in true Latin fervor—and wept. They were reunited. Happy, they spent hours together, then the next day Toscanini was Gatti-Casazza's guest at lunch.

The long feud was over. Music had separated them. It had brought them together again.

Toscanini has had a long, brilliant career, which has taken him up from a minor position in Italy, to early triumphs with Gatti-Casazza and then to international fame. During that time, as director of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York for 24 years, Gatti-Casazza has established himself as well.

BUT Toscanini has literally lived for his art. The edicts of Fascism have not daunted him, he has dared to face ridicule by refusing to conduct at the eleventh hour and even the threat of death has not turned him from his set course. He demands perfection. He demands the utmost freedom in music as a writer insists on freedom of speech.

It was the demand for perfection that caused his break with Gatti-Casazza. They had come from Italy, close friends, and were established at the Metropolitan. Toscanini had scored his triumphs and nobody expected he would leave, because the legend was: "Where Gatti is, Toscanini will stay."

But it was not so. There was a stormy quarrel and the conductor left, never to return. Said one director of the opera house who followed Toscanini to the dock from which he was to sail: "I followed him to the dock. I threw my pride out of the window and my purse after it. It was too late—"

THE story of what caused the break is this:

Toscanini asked the Metropolitan for improvements in setting, alterations in lighting, because, he said, they were necessary for him to reach the perfection he must attain. The directors would not agree to his wishes, naturally expecting that Gatti could soothe the temperamental conductor, his friend. The heated argument that developed caused the break.

That was exactly what any person who understood the workings of Toscanini's mind might have expected.

As young men together he and Gatti had been able to work without strife because both were burning with the desire to bring out the best in music.

At Gatti's native Ferrara, in Italy, Toscanini was guest conductor. Both were in their twenties, enthusiastic, hopeful. And when Gatti was called to La Scala at Milan he took Toscanini with him, and their fame grew together.

W. K. Vanderbilt, surveying the tottering prestige of the Metropolitan, where he was a director, and seeking men who could rebuild it, looked towards La Scala. A fellow director convinced Gatti that he should come to America.

That was a great day, for Gatti, asking Toscanini to come with him, rejoiced like a school-boy. He and the conductor seemed closer than ever. It didn't appear that anything could smash their comradeship.

In America, at the Metropolitan in 1908, they introduced and sustained the golden era of operatic production. "Aida" and other Italian favorites established Toscanini at once.

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, director of the Metropolitan Opera Co. . . . who came over from Italy in 1908 to rebuild its fading prestige.

Gatti was a fine leader, a famous maestro.

They produced Wagner and French operas. The sensitive, finely-sculptured face of Toscanini became a symbol of perfection as he conducted so well, following all the scores from memory. He was acclaimed as a genius.

But when the break came in 1915 he and Gatti went their separate ways. Toscanini was a lonely figure, incomparable in his art.

It was easy to see why attempts to reconcile the old friends from sunny Italy was a failure. The early success of Toscanini had convinced him that he must seek the greatest heights, ruthlessly destroying all obstacles blocking the way to perfection. And meanwhile Gatti continued to be the supreme maestro at the Metropolitan.

While Gatti was in New York, happily married to Madame Frances Alda, Toscanini was in Italy, on the continent, and back in America, conducting as superbly as ever.

HIS temperamental outbursts added to his fame. Once he rehearsed "Norma" for months at La Scala. The coming production was advertised as a supreme operatic triumph. Then came the day of the dress rehearsal and musical Italy waited expectantly for the great

Gatti-Casazza, major-domo of the Metropolitan, and Toscanini, greatest of the conductors, parted in anger in 1915 and for 11 years didn't even see each other, until a recent benefit performance brought them together conductor's final prediction. But the firm mouth of Toscanini set. In his eyes was a somber light.

"It shall not be produced," he cried. "No singer alive can do justice to the music."

His decision was final. Not even the bitterest criticism could sway him. He demanded perfection.

At another time, showing vividly how his very being was dominated by his art, he struck a listless violinist with his baton. He wounded the man and was taken to court. Pastore, the famous psychologist, defended him by the plea that a great artist was so excited that the normal personality was eliminated. He was freed.

When he came to America to conduct the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra he ignored requests that he and Gatti be reconciled, and, although he did not say so, undoubtedly it was because he reasoned that he had been wounded by the failure of the Metropolitan to allow him to perfect his art. It, therefore, as represented by Gatti, was in the wrong.

HE was a hard man to satisfy. He would not tolerate mistakes, and the musician who failed him at a crisis was frequently summarily dropped. Strangely, they liked him, for he was just.

A kindly man in his personal life, devoted to his family and enjoying the company of his friends, he seemed changed completely when he conducted. His sharp-lined face and dark, sensitive eyes expressed a feeling for his art such as less gifted human beings could admire but could not understand.

The success of Gatti at the Metropolitan was continuing during all these years, but Toscanini never went back.

His clashes with Fascism continued to illustrate his underlying reasoning that no great artist should make concessions.

In Italy, once he flatly refused to play the Fascist hymn. He declared to play it would destroy the atmosphere of religious meditation necessary for the successful concert, which he was about to lead.

Outside the opera house the crowd yelled ominously. A friend came in and whispered he might be killed if he continued to refuse.

THE shaggy, leonine head of the master went back. Indignant fire burned in his eyes. He gave orders to start the concert.

And when it was over, when he had scored another triumph, the applause could not drown out the cries of the crowd outside. He walked out and faced the mob, bravely. Hoodlums leaped at him, attacked him, beat him severely before he escaped from their clutches and was driven away by his chauffeur.

His inflexibility where his art was concerned was admirably shown at a performance when Gigli, singing a score so well that he was applauded for minutes, started back to sing an encore. Toscanini insisted if he did that it would destroy the continuity of the opera.

Nothing could change the conductor. He stalked out of the orchestra pit, swung on his cape and was driven to the dock, where he took the first boat to Buenos Aires!

A man like that would make no concessions, they said, and when his American friends heard of the incident they sighed and said such a man would never forget his pride. He would never submit to a reconciliation with Gatti.

Gatti-Casazza, meanwhile, had been divorced from Madame Alda and in 1930 had married, secretly, the young danseuse and ballet mistress, Rosina Galli. That might have touched the heart of Toscanini, for 25 years before she had appeared, a little girl of nine, in a production at La Scala.

LAST fall Toscanini got neuritis in his right arm—something that usually happens to every conductor. He went back to Italy, an old man, and Gatti, another old man, was still at the Metropolitan. Both were past 60 and it appeared as if they might never see each other again.

When Toscanini, recovering in the sun of Italy, was asked to return to New York to conduct the concert for the unemployed musicians, his heart was touched. Although his arm still pained him, he could not deny the request. He paid his way to America to conduct the concert.

The reconciliation was a happy ending to a feud that it seemed never could be ended because of Toscanini's adamant opinion of what perfection in art meant to him. And there may be a happy anti-climax, for it is reported that Toscanini may appear under Gatti-Casazza's direction at the Metropolitan this fall.

FOR FAIRNESS AND JUSTICE

We understand that it has been definitely determined to reduce the 40 cent tax on property outside of the incorporated cities, which has provided for the building of roads. This will save the ranchers considerable taxes, depending upon how much it is cut. The Register brought this matter to the attention of the people repeatedly. It has done it for months, and we are glad that this position is to be assumed by the Board of Supervisors. We want to congratulate them on this.

This is made possible, of course, through the use of the gas tax funds. Some 70 per cent of this gas tax, however, is due by all justice to the cities. The cities have 500 miles of paved highways, and they represent some 70 per cent of the gas tax by reason of the ownership of cars inside the municipal limits. In fact, it is probable that there is more than 70 per cent in the cities, because from the total there has been eliminated all those who receive their license tags through rural delivery, and there are many who belong in the city, and who live in the city, but who receive their mail through rural delivery.

The cities have never received their share of this gas tax, and now, having determined to use it to help save the ranchers their taxes, it is high time that the same consideration is given to the cities of Fullerton, Anaheim, Huntington Beach, Santa Ana, and the other cities. This can be done, for let it be remembered that under the general laws of the state, in section 13, in the Motor Vehicle Fuel Fund, there is this provision:

But the Board of Supervisors of any county may in its discretion expend any portion of such sums so received by such county in the construction, maintenance and repair of streets, bridges and culverts within those incorporated cities therein the legislative bodies of which by ordinance or resolution authorize such work of construction, maintenance and repair.

This provision of the law empowers the Supervisors to deal justly with the cities of the county. And certainly now in this time of stress, when taxes are such an important factor of the expenditure in every home, the men who are upon our Board should take such action as to insure help to the cities.

ANOTHER HISTORIC BLUNDER

Among the great blunders of history is likely to be the enforcement of the war reparations provisions. An observer of the situation in Germany sees the doubtful condition of that Republic as the natural outcome of the Treaty of Versailles and the treatment given to the Germans ever since their defeat in 1918. It has been pointed out that if the Allies had deliberately planned their course to make the existence of the German Republic as difficult as possible, they could hardly have done otherwise than they have done.

Those who are writing history are quite agreed that the allies themselves turned the balance in Russia toward Communism. Kerensky was straining for power, battling the forces which were rationalizing the Russian soldiers' desire to have peace with the war. When the allies did not even back him up with the material for carrying on warfare the ground was cut from under him and he was forced to give up the struggle against the Communists.

Colonel Raymond Robbins, when he returned from Russia at the close of the war, was highly censorious of allied strategic failures in Russia. The breakdown of the Russian front came so near to the end of the war that it affected the Allied success very little, particularly because the United States had entered in Russia. The breakdown of the Russian front came so near to the end of the war that it affected the Allied success very little, particularly because the United States had entered in Russia. The breakdown of the Russian front came so near to the end of the war that it affected the Allied success very little, particularly because the United States had entered in Russia.

Now comes this charge of blundering with Germany. The German Republic has been too much on trial. Support and encouragement has not been given the Republic as it should have been.

The very fact, however, that the leading nations are met together in Lausanne and that the representatives listened Monday to a lengthy discourse on Germany's economic situation denotes a change of mind over the adamantine stand of several years ago when minds were set for the pound of flesh. There is reported disappointment on the part of the French because Germany has not come bargaining. Germany has not much left to bargain with. The Republic itself is in danger. The German representative cannot openly make such an admission. It is plain, however, for the statesmen of the world at Lausanne to see that.

In reading reports from Lausanne, or any other such conference it should be borne in mind at all times that while each spokesman has his eyes on the delegates to the conference, he necessarily must keep his ears open to the people at home. Too conciliatory an attitude would be intolerable to the nationalists of his own country and the leader would be swept from power and into relative oblivion. There are times when just such courageous action is highly becoming but at other times it is profitless and moreover out of character.

There's nothing left of the political parties but the labels, says Senator Hull. Who will open the bidding for the labels?

ALFRED SMITH, THE DEFEATIST

Alfred E. Smith is at the Chicago convention primarily, if not entirely, to prevent the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

We hold no brief for Mr. Roosevelt, and we believe that there are a number of men who could be nominated to the greater benefit of the Democratic party and of the country than Mr. Roosevelt, providing the Democrats should be successful.

But a man whose mission is to defeat and destroy, and particularly the candidacy of a man who has been loyal to him in other years, is certainly not performing according to the spirit of gratitude or of principle. We are rather inclined to believe that Mr. Smith doesn't even like his own role. The "Happy Warrior" is making the best of it. But there are certain interests very clearly behind Smith.

Smith is naturally a man of strong friendships. He is a man who considers ingratitude almost criminal. There must be some strong force operating on his mind to force him into the position in which he is. He is pretending that it is a hope for the nomination. Certainly nothing could be farther from his thought, unless he has actually lost his mind. For if there is anything more certain than that the Democrats will not put a prohibition plank in their platform, it is that Al Smith will not be nominated by the Democratic convention.

No, you must look further to find the real reason for his opposition. It is not because of Tammany Hall. Tammany Hall is rather friendly to Roosevelt. We would have more faith in Roosevelt if he had taken action in a manner as to alienate the Tammany organization.

The reason for Mr. Smith's attitude may come out. When it does, it will be traced to the influence of certain forces, mainly financial, that do not want Mr. Roosevelt a candidate.

SUCH IMPUDENCE!

It is rather interesting to note how strangely our Board of Supervisors react to appeals from the cities for funds.

The City Attorney of Fullerton, in presenting a request from the City of Fullerton for a portion of the gas tax fund, was told by the Board of Supervisors that he didn't need to speak; that they had already made up their minds, that their answer was "No", so that his arguments would have no weight.

It is rather remarkable, as one views the situation, to note how the supposed servants of the people will treat representatives of cities when they are asking not for "handouts", not something from charity, but standing on their inalienable rights as citizens and taxpayers, and presenting the claim of the cities for moneys that rightfully belong to them.

Regardless of the decisions of the Board, certainly men should keep an open mind, and be ready to listen to the arguments that may be presented. Justice is a principle for which we should stand for all people. The city people should stand for it for the rural districts. The rural districts should stand for it for the cities.

There should be no attempt by the one to take the values or money away from the other. The program, as it has been carried out in Orange county, has been manifestly unjust, but it looks as though the cities were determined at last to present their claim to the very door of the citadel.

A Precedent For Hollywood

San Francisco Chronicle

After a family tiff the ordinary mill run type of husband is likely to make up with a couple of dozen roses or a box of candy. Not so the Hollywood type. Consider Buster Keaton, who carries around with him a gold mine in the shape of an expressionless face which attracts many cash customers willing to pay for a laugh. No flowers or candy sufficed him when he set about placating his wife after his highly advertised runaway in April. His must be a make up gift of high reconciliation value. So today Mrs. Keaton numbers a $100,000 steam yacht among her kitchens and the dove of peace roosts in the Keaton mansion.

It may be asked, what of it? And, indeed, what of it? Every worthwhile husband, mill run or money gilt, knows that nothing is too good for his wife. And every wife agrees. So there are likely to be cheers for Buster Keaton. Still the cheers may be tempered with the thought that the comedian has established a precedent that even Hollywood may find difficulty in living up to in these days of economic stress. Hundred thousand dollar yachts are expensive kitchens. Then there's this new tax on pleasure boats. Fortunately that is not likely to worry the Keatons.

More Truth Than Poetry

ON LEARNING THAT FIRES ARE STARTED BY GERMS

I've always known the microbe is
A dour and evil meaning creature;
A black assassin's heart is his—
He has not one redeeming feature.
But I was somewhat startled when
I learned this bug, so wise and wary,
Is furthermore a base incendiary.

I'm told the creature sometimes crawls
In legions up electric wires
Concealed in conduits on the walls
And thereby starts disastrous fires.
His forehead furrowed in a frown,
His wicked soul devoid of pity,
He lights a blaze that might burn down
A city.

What thoughts are his I cannot guess.
Does he sit there in exultation
And view the terror and distress
Attending a vast conflagration?
Do you suppose he fancies that
He's done a bold and daring action?
Do you believe it brings him satisfaction?

He has no strength, this tiny mite,
A millionth smaller than a weevil,
But what a frightful appetite
The creature has for wanton evil!
The race of men will soon be wrecked
Unless it starts an agitation
Which shall not end until his extinction.

Little Benny's

Note Book

by Lee Pape

Ma was darnin' holes out of stockings and pop was smoking and thinking in his private chair, and he started to laugh out loud to himself, saying, I herd a funny one today, ha ha. It seems there was a fellow and he was taken with a sudden attack of patriotism and decided he had to enlist in the army, but it seems there was no recruiting office nearer than 40 miles from his home, and he didn't have a cent for train fare, so he walked the entire 40 miles, ha ha, and it took him the whole day to do it, but he stuck at it and by golly late that afternoon he found himself in the recruiting office, and the recruiting officer examined him and found he was O key till he came to his feet, and he said, Why man, you're flat-footed, you wouldn't be any good in the army, you couldn't possibly stand the long marches, ha ha, and the poor fellow said, Well now that's just too bad, and I reckon there's nothing left for me to do but turn right around and walk all a way home again, ha ha, and that's just what he turned around and did.

That's not the end, is it? ma said.

Of course it's the end for Feet sake, pop said, and ma said, Well my goodness, if the man could wawk all that distance and back again, in other words 80 miles in one day, he surely could of marched in the army as well as anybody else, if not better.

Naturally he could, that's exactly what he could of done, ha ha, pop said, and ma said, Then why didn't they except him into the army in that case?

But yee gods, that's the very point I've been straining and striving to bring out, of course they should of excepted him, pop said, and ma said, Well that's what I thawt, so that proves I understood the point all rite, but that doesn't come under the head of my general conception of a joke, I must say. You may mind explaining what's funny a bout that? she said, and pop said, That's going to take time, apparently, we better wait till I take my vacation.

And he got in back of the sporting page and stayed there.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

COURAGE AND THE COMING CAMPAIGN

In no campaign since the party system came into being has courage been more imperatively needed.

Let me say again, as we swing into the 1932 campaign, what I have said in other years about the virtue of courage in politics. "These are my convictions," shouted a candidate at the end of a vigorous campaign speech, "these are my convictions, and if you do not like them, I will change them."

This uncommonly honest campaigner has left a lusty line of descendants.

Politics seems to subject a man to a series of well-nigh irresistible temptations to caution, compromise, and cowardice.

There seems to be something about popular government that breeds a leadership sickeningly subservient to the desire to say and to do the thing that will cause the least debate and capture the most votes at the next election.

I have no desire to join the popular cry against politicians. It is always wiser, I think, to study the sinner's temptation before swearing at the sinner's sin.

It may be that the people are more to blame than the politicians for the disease of chronic cowardice that attacks political life.

No one disputes the fact that democracy needs leadership that is born of a marriage of realistic thinking and moral courage.

And yet democracy consistently practices a sort of anonymous blackmail on its political leadership, with the result that too often courage gives way to cowardice and the statesman turns politician. Democracy is suspicious of its strongest men.

It admits them to political leadership reluctantly, and does everything in its power to hamstring them after they assume office.

Such suspicion is understandable when we remember the ruin that has been wrought in the past by uncontrolled autocracies and bureaucratic.

But unless we want politics to fall victim to a paralysis of cowardice at the hands of weak men who are willing to follow when they should lead their constituents, we must come to understand that it is only the strong man's irresponsibility that needs curbing; the strong man's strength must be given freer and freer rein for courageous leadership, or representative government is doomed.

Democracy is safe only when the voters make their leaders feel that the best politics is to forget politics.

American politics needs a new birth of courage.

By political courage I mean the steadfast refusal to straddle any issue because straddling promises to catch a few more votes.

By political courage I mean also the willingness to seem to straddle an issue if the politician conflicts of the past have divided the country into two dogmatic camps, neither of which represents more than a partial understanding of the issue at stake.

We can have the politics of courage as soon as we are ready, as a people, consistently to reward courage and to penalize cowardice.

We shall have the politics of cowardice as long as we make the price of political success the willingness of the leader to play errand boy to the crowd.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

THINK IT OVER

When a kindly neighbor advises you about your ways with your children, think over what she says. Listen and wait. Don't be in a hurry to run to apply this new-found wisdom to your children.

You may be doing what is right for them. You are far more likely to be right where they are concerned than the kindly neighbor can possibly be.

"Your little son is very demonstrative, isn't he? I notice he likes to kiss his little playmates. Your husband is like that, isn't he? I'm not a bit demonstrative. Neither is my son. I'm rather glad of it, you know. It may save complications later on in his life. So glad to have seen you. Run in some afternoon, won't you?"

Take it easy. After all, what has this woman's attitude toward her husband and family got to do with yours? What would be all right for her might not be at all good for you. What if she does not approve of your child? Do you approve him? Why isn't your opinion as good as hers?

If an interested relative puts on a serious air and tells you in confidential tones that she is worried about your daughter's careless ways, don't fall into panic. You have been living with that daughter for some years. You have seen her growing into young womanhood and you have a fairly good idea of what she is. The low-toned confidences ought not to be news to you. Listen and think it over.

Young girls are always a source of terror to their older relatives. It is scarcely possible for older people to put themselves forward into a generation. They dwell in the past. Not the actual past they experienced but the one they have known. Listen and then wait a day or two before taking that advice to heart. If you have been at all active in assisting your daughter's growth and development you need no confidential information about her. Use your own experience and knowledge and save yourself a lot of heart-ache.

The same thing holds good for the household. Many a good servant has lost her place because a kindly neighbor gave some ill-digested advice. Many a fine friendship has been broken because someone acted upon a confidential warning that had neither reason nor justice to support it. Respect your own opinion well enough to consult it and you will be saved many an uneasy hour.

Of course you will lay yourself open to the charge of being "pig-headed," "obstinate as an old sheep," "stiff as a mule." Never mind. Let them call the roll of the Zoo if they wish, but consult your own mind before allowing another's to supersede it.

I think this is particularly important where there are children in question. If they are to be pushed and pulled and shunted about at the will and whim of everybody who chooses to take it upon himself to direct their courses they are going to stand still in rebellious bewilderment. And small blame to them.

Children want and appreciate leadership. They are quick to feel its power and to respond to its influence. They are keen too, in discovering the first signs of wobbling. If you waver from side to side they will desert you. Just think it over and take it easy when the confidences are poured into your ears.
